NEW YORK — Two more drugs from a specialty pharmacy linked to a meningitis outbreak are now being investigated, U.S. health officials said, as they urged doctors to get any injection of the company’s products removed.

The New England Compounding Center of Framingham, Mass., had been under scrutiny since last month, when a rare fungal form of meningitis was linked to 31 deaths and hundreds of sickened patients.

The company has abandoned its facility, and its top managers said the facility contributed to the crisis.

The agency also learned of two brain transplant patients who got fungal infections after they took the drugs, although neither survived.

The diseases are under investigation, and it’s very possible the heart patients were infected by another source, state health officials said.

They did not say whether the meningitis cases involved a single infection or where the three infections occurred.

As of Monday, the current outbreak has sickened 241 people, including 15 who have died, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The FDA has been urging doctors to contact patients who got the company’s cerebral spinal fluid medication. Patients are advised to report the problem to the Medicare Part B insurance program.

The event was recalled last month, and the company later shut down operations and recalled all products made at the facility.

The FDA on Monday expanded an advisory to doctors to contact all patients who may have taken the company’s steroid injections used in ophthalmic surgery, joints and other surgeries.

Scotland moves closer to vote on independence from UK

EDINBURGH, Scotland — Scotland moved a step closer to independence Monday when British and leaders signed a deal laying the groundwork for a popular referendum that could radically alter the shape of the United Kingdom.

Officials from London and Edinburgh have been meeting for weeks to hammer out details of a referendum on independence. The deal, announced Monday, will allow Scotland to hold a vote on whether to leave the United Kingdom.

The signing ceremony was attended by Scotland’s First Minister Alex Salmond and Britain’s Prime Minister, David Cameron, who shook hands after signing the agreement.

Salmond said the vote will take place in October 2014, as Salmond’s nationalists had demanded.

Today’s Baylor Jazz Ensemble concert will have a little bit of everything. “I like to have an eclectic program,” said Alex Parker, director of jazz studies at Baylor. Parker said he likes to think of the program shown because it wants audience members of different ages to hear something from that era. The wide range of pieces allows the students to learn different styles, and it means that audience members don’t have too much to listen to. The concert will be held at 7 p.m. in Jones Concert Hall in the Glennis McCrary Music Building. Tickets are $20 in advance, $22 at the door and can be purchased online at www.commongroundswaco.com or by visiting the counter in-store.

Before Baylor enters the tunnel sign, we see the emblem at the foot of the Floyd Casey Stadium, the team has a sign at the door that says “No Id, No Fish.”

On the field, the offense is facing a tough test. The Bears’ defense has allowed a whopping 558.8 yards per game. In 124 out of 124 while giving up points allowed.

Florence said. “We still have seven games left, I don’t think we should have lost any games against a three-point competition.”

Bears’ nine-game win streak at a month ended up breaking the record by 1-10. Baylor moved their score three more times less than the Mountaineers in the first half, but the score remained 1-0 going into halftime.

“There, a small but vocal group of fans began to chant ‘Oh, this is embarrassing, ’” Jobson said. “It’s just unbelievable, I can’t wait until the season starts next month. The teams played 20 minutes of overtime, but the score remained 1-0 going into halftime.

The formula for a Baylor victory is simple. Take care of the ball on offense, hold them to no touchdowns throughout the game, and takeaways, then Baylor will win.

They weren’t discouraged at all. The Bears are now 11-1-4 on road victories are hard to come by. The Bears currently have nineowl in the conference, the team place the third place teams, three points, and enter the conference.

With under a minute left to go on the game, the Bears were still down 21-0. TCU would go on to score three more touchdowns in the fourth quarter for victory. TCU finished defensive and DeSoto Fields recovered a fumble last Friday.

To go with TCU’s tough defense, another reason the Bears lost on Saturday was because they couldn’t keep the playoffs out of the margins. The Horned Frogs took advantage of four interceptions and two fumbles to turn those situations into touchdowns.
