BU lip-synchs to spread word of domestic abuse

By Paula Ann Solis

Student organizations are spreading the word about domestic abuse.

“A performance by Christine Ha helps raise $12,400 to be donated to the local Family Abuse Center in Waco,” said Christine Ha, who was also an opportunity to raise awareness of domestic abuse.

“She wants to get the word out about what domestic violence is, how to identify it and how to prevent it,” she said.

The event was designed to involve all students and faculty, and the mission was to educate everyone about domestic abuse.

The lip-synches brought awareness to the issue, and the money raised will go to the Family Abuse Center in Waco.

The event was successful, and the money raised will be used to help those in need.

Vets, Baylor gather to honor those who serve

Multiple generations of veterans gathered with Baylor students and the Waco community at 5 p.m. Monday in the SUB Bowl to share stories and reflect on the service and sacrifice of the U.S. military.

The event was designed to involve all students and faculty, and the mission was to educate everyone about domestic abuse.

The lip-synches brought awareness to the issue, and the money raised will go to the Family Abuse Center in Waco.

Though the room was filled with light and oxygen, the room was empty of soldiers.

The room was empty of soldiers, and the only presence was the voice of a man who had served in the military.

He spoke about his experiences in the military, and the people in the room were moved by his stories.

He spoke about how the military had changed him, and the people in the room were moved by his stories.

He spoke about the sacrifices he had made, and the people in the room were moved by his stories.

Some conservatives amiss on death penalty

Typically, support for the death penalty comes among Republicans and conservatives, the groups known here as ‘tough on crime.’ But a new poll shows those conservatives in views, and we come to the conclusion that the death penalty is inconsistent with our philosophy of responsible government.” He said.

Conservatives Concerned About the Death Penalty has been working to create a dialogue between conservatives and libertarians to revisit this issue. Penalties Concerned that the government is not spending the money wisely and that the waste of the death penalty program is a continual waste of government funds. They recently partnered with Young Americans for Liberty in an effort to inform young people about the high moral and financial costs associated with what Hyde explained, “yet another lethal, grossly inefficient program.”

Conservatives believe that the government should not be involved in the moral and financial costs associated with the death penalty program. In the end, the best argument comes to pragmatism and limited government.

“We should support the death penalty,” Hyde said. “That’s the only way we can keep the peace. But, that fact is we are supporting it, no more. When it comes to pragmatism and limited government, it’s a tough sell.”

Boomer Sooner nevermore

“This I whispered, and a faint echo murmured back the word, no more! And the only word there spoken was the whispered word, no more! And so faintly they came tripping, tripping down the football floor, Leave thy happiness unbroken! — quit the dearth of football score! To the television I was screaming, just one touchdown I implore; And the only word there spoken was the whispered word, no more! "Ah, but Darkness there, and nothing more.""
AsianFest brings culture, dance to BU

The AsianFest Culture Show starts at 7 p.m. Friday in Waco Hall. The second part of Asian Fest, the AsianFest Banquet, starts at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Bailey Spiritual Life Center.

Houston native Angela Nguyen, president of the Vietnamese Student Association, said AsianFest promotion not only Asian culture, but also Asian-American culture.

“Give people the opportunity to see what our community is like,” Nguyen said.

The show will be a mix of cultural dance, modern dance and individual performances, Houston native Chris Tran, Baylor Student Activity Association secretary.

Trang said the show will be about two hours long. It is open to the public and free.

Other organizations from Baylor that are participating are the Vietnamese Student Association, Filipino Students Association, Japanese Student Association, Africans for Christ and Asians for Christ.

Tickets for the banquet are $5 for general admission, “she said. It is open to the public, but those who wish to attend must purchase all week in the Baylor Bookstore.

No. 5 Baylor (8-0) didn’t quite meet the all-time attendance mark against No. 10 Oklahoma (7-1), but it was OU. The Bears still moved into the top of the most recent eyeball of the history of Floyd Casey Stadium on Thursday. In front of 61,357, screening - out was watching the biggest football game in Baylor history, the Bears make a statement with a 41-12 win over the Sooners.

"I hope this performance will change the outlook on our whole team. Even though the defense stepped up, this was a team win," Ahmad Dixon | Senior safety

In the BCS rankings, Baylor moved up to No. 5. Behind Alabama and the Harris Poll. In the AP voters and move up in the BCS rankings, Baylor jumped on Fox. The Bears are seventh in pass attempts, allowing only 173.9 passing yards per game. "They throw the ball a lot," senior defensive tackle Terrance Lloyd said. "They like us, and that’s going to be a challenge. I’m ready to see what we are going to be defensive wise, a lot of pass rushing going on. I’m going to enjoy that." "Tech’s gone through an unbelievably difficult stretch of games, and they are a very talented team. We have a really good team. We’re going to have to be prepared on offense, defense and special teams just like we’re racing the best team in the conference, because right now they are the best." Bryce Petty said. "I really don’t think that our record shows how good our team is. I hope this performance will change the outlook on our whole team. Even though the defense stepped up, this was a team win."

Junior quarterback Bryce Petty established himself as a Heisman contender with a five touchdown performance against Oklahoma. Petty had 224 all purpose yards, and five touchdowns and two rushing touchdowns. In the second half, Linwood exploded. On 10 rushing attempts, he finished with 145 rushing yards, which translates to 8.9 rushing yards per attempt. On the day, Linwood finished with 25 rushes for 182 yards and 7.3 yards per carry.
