Drivers beware: Stadium to upset parking

By Daniel Coroin

Director of Parking Services Karl McNair said recently new parking rules would come into effect for the start of the season.

"Our plan is to use the Dutton garage and the Baylor Law School parking lot also would be subject to the new requirement," said Brian Nicholson, associate vice president for facilities, planning and construction. "That means if there are students parking in those facilities, they'll have to move their cars." Karl McNair, director of real estate services, said students using the Speight Parking Facility and the Baylor Law School parking lot will also be subject to the new requirement.

The revised spaces will be available to people who purchase a game day parking pass for their vehicle through parking services. Prices for the pass are not finalized. Starting fall 2014, students without a game day parking permit will be required to move their cars from the Dutton and Speight garages and the low school parking lot on game weeks to make room for visitors with the tag. Otherwise, students who leave their cars in these areas will be towed.

In an email to the Lariat, Matt Penney, director for parking services, said standard protocol for enforcing the new campus parking policy has yet to be finalized. The price for ordinary campus parking passes will not change because of the new rule. But the new rule activates nearly 2,400 parking spots on campus for visitors with the game day parking permit, not including 2,539 at the Ferrell Center. When Floyd Casey Stadium hosted its last home, 8,910.

Q: The Obama administration has expressed its concerns about the Russian forces in Ukraine and is working with European allies to respond. What steps could the United States and/or its allies take, and what course of action seems the most likely?

A: The United States and European states have limited options to use to contain the crisis in Crimea. The military option is on the table, because there are no direct reas- onable guarantees that were offered to Ukraine over the past 20 years. Ukraine is not a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, nor did it officially apply to become a member of NATO.

Q: The Ukrainian government views the Russian occupation of Crimea as a declaration of war and is making preparations to send $1 billion aid to a fledgling government and urged Putin to stand down.

A: It is not appropriate to invade a country, and in the end of a board of a gun, says what are you trying to achieve," Kerry said. "That is not 21st-century, G-8, major nation behavior." Although it was of the Crimea Peninsula, with the Russian army firing warning shots to show off Ukrainian soldiers, global media pumped higher on tentative reports that the Ukrainian president was not seeking to escalate the conflict. Kerry brought moral support to the Ukraine fighting to fend off bankruptcy. Putin’s decision to not seek re-election launched a stampede of 26 candidates picked the state’s attorney general for land commissioner in the fight to succeed longtime Gov. W. Bush and son of former Florida

Putin talks tough, sets agenda with Ukraine

MOSCOW — Stepping back from the brink of war, Vladimir Putin talked tough but cooled tensions in the Ukraine crisis Tuesday, saying Russia has no in- tention “to fight the Ukrainian people” but reserves the right to use force.

As the Russian president held court in his personal residence, U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry met with his Russian counterpart for the first time since the Ukrainian president fled a week and a half ago. Putin made his first public comments since the Ukrai-

Q: The Obama administration has expressed its concerns about the Russian forces in Ukraine and is working with European allies to respond. What steps could the United States and/or its allies take, and what course of action seems the most likely?

A: The United States and European states have limited options to use to contain the crisis in Crimea. The military option is on the table, because there are no direct reas- onable guarantees that were offered to Ukraine over the past 20 years. Ukraine is not a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, nor did it officially apply to become a member of NATO.

Q: The Ukrainian government views the Russian occupation of Crimea as a declaration of war and is making preparations to send $1 billion aid to a fledgling government and urged Putin to stand down.

A: It is not appropriate to invade a country, and in the end of a board of a gun, says what are you trying to achieve," Kerry said. "That is not 21st-century, G-8, major nation behavior." Although it was of the Crimea Peninsula, with the Russian army firing warning shots to show off Ukrainian soldiers, global media pumped higher on tentative reports that the Ukrainian president was not seeking to escalate the conflict. Kerry brought moral support to the Ukraine fighting to fend off bankruptcy. Putin’s decision to not seek re-election launched a stampede of 26 candidates picked the state’s attorney general for land commissioner in the fight to succeed longtime Gov. W. Bush and son of former Florida

Putin talks tough, sets agenda with Ukraine

MOSCOW — Stepping back from the brink of war, Vladimir Putin talked tough but cooled tensions in the Ukraine crisis Tuesday, saying Russia has no in- tention “to fight the Ukrainian people” but reserves the right to use force.

As the Russian president held court in his personal residence, U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry met with his Russian counterpart for the first time since the Ukrainian president fled a week and a half ago. Putin made his first public comments since the Ukrai-

Q: The Obama administration has expressed its concerns about the Russian forces in Ukraine and is working with European allies to respond. What steps could the United States and/or its allies take, and what course of action seems the most likely?

A: The United States and European states have limited options to use to contain the crisis in Crimea. The military option is on the table, because there are no direct reas- onable guarantees that were offered to Ukraine over the past 20 years. Ukraine is not a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, nor did it officially apply to become a member of NATO.

Q: The Ukrainian government views the Russian occupation of Crimea as a declaration of war and is making preparations to send $1 billion aid to a fledgling government and urged Putin to stand down.

A: It is not appropriate to invade a country, and in the end of a board of a gun, says what are you trying to achieve," Kerry said. "That is not 21st-century, G-8, major nation behavior." Although it was of the Crimea Peninsula, with the Russian army firing warning shots to show off Ukrainian soldiers, global media pumped higher on tentative reports that the Ukrainian president was not seeking to escalate the conflict. Kerry brought moral support to the Ukraine fighting to fend off bankruptcy. Putin’s decision to not seek re-election launched a stampede of 26 candidates picked the state’s attorney general for land commissioner in the fight to succeed longtime Gov. W. Bush and son of former Florida

Putin talks tough, sets agenda with Ukraine

MOSCOW — Stepping back from the brink of war, Vladimir Putin talked tough but cooled tensions in the Ukraine crisis Tuesday, saying Russia has no in- tention “to fight the Ukrainian people” but reserves the right to use force.

As the Russian president held court in his personal residence, U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry met with his Russian counterpart for the first time since the Ukrainian president fled a week and a half ago. Putin made his first public comments since the Ukrai-
Don’t let your selfie become your downfall

Kissy faces, selfies, friend mandala and dance music videos are all the rage for photos on social media sites such as Facebook and Instagram. Many people choose to use their college student years to make friends and interact with others as they may be living far from home or far from the people whom they call home. So, does that mean that selfies are a bad idea? For college students who will enter the workforce soon. We are working opportunities.

A few tips:

1. Don’t let your selfie become your downfall.
2. Be careful about what we are portraying about ourselves through our social media accounts.
3. Don’t jump to conclusions based on one picture.
4. Consider the context in which the picture was taken.
5. Remember that your online presence can affect future job opportunities.

In conclusion, it is important to be careful with what we post on social media, especially for college students. Your online presence can have a significant impact on your future opportunities in the workforce.

Lariat Letters

Correctly wrong about US troops

Upset and disturbed, though not the emotions I expressed in the last column, I do not think my feelings will change. I would like to discuss what I felt after hearing guest speaker Jerry Nolden’s speech on Tuesday. As one who has been on the gridiron for four years, I wanted to share my thoughts.

When I first heard Mr. Nolden speak, I was surprised by his perspective. He challenged me to think about the true cost of war. He asked me to consider the lives that have been lost and the innocent lives that have been disrupted. He reminded me that our actions have consequences.

When I reflect on my time in the military, I realize that every decision I made had an impact on my life and on the lives of others. I learned that the decisions we make have consequences, and that these consequences can be far-reaching.

Now, more than ever, I realize the importance of respecting and valuing those who have served our country. I have a newfound respect for those who have sacrificed for our nation.

What do you think? Do you agree with Mr. Nolden’s perspective on the true cost of war? Please share your thoughts in the comments below.

Lillian Ferrante

Editor in chief

Greg DeVries

City editor

Linda Williams

News editor

Tracy Gregory

Editorial assistant

Leah Lebeau

Copy editor

Maleea Johnson

Copy editor

Laurie Esham

Broadcast News Producer

Alivia Brackin

Asst. Broadcast News Producer

Jordan Davis

Sports editor

Daniel Hill

Staff writer

Jordan Jordan

Staff writer

Millicent Smith

Staff writer

Faith Stevens

Staff writer

Kremona Irving

Photographer

Ashley Monroe

Photographer

Courtney wrong about US troops

Taken from another angle, it would be similar to a police officer, firefighter or teacher receiving a certificate with limited screening and without any training or testing. The credibility of these leaders would be compromised because the general public would not be able to trust the quality of their work. Soon any person would be able to work in these positions without the training and as an employee should be a police officer or firefighter or teacher. Not everyone should be a minister.

A wedding officiant is a far cry from being a law enforcement officer or a teacher. All officiants have to do is get the couple to state a Declaration of intent — the traditional “Do you take this person to be your wife?” — and the rest is up to interpretation or communication for the bride and groom. And this whole website provides an opportunity for any person to claim a wedding officiant without going to a church or from their own computer, and it is easy for anyone to follow this calling.

Still, the title of minister should be reserved for those who have been trained to be a minister, not a 19-year-old that spits the color of his hair.
Students take pride in Texas’ vivid history and heritage

Not everyone comprehends the love of Texas, but there is something stirring others to the state. According to statistics provided by Baylor Admissions, 30 percent of entering freshmen from fall 2012 and fall 2013 listed Texas as their home state.

It is common to find out-of-state students at Baylor who are from other large states. For example, students from 70 of the 50 states are enrolled at Baylor.

In 2012, San Diego junior Rick Urbanek, who originally came to Texas to better his chances at a career, said he had not been to Texas until recently. According to statistics, 30 percent of students are from other large states.

Urbanek said he had not been to Texas until recently. According to statistics, 30 percent of students are from other large states.

Texas is unique because it has a good mix of urban and country life, Urbanek said.

“Both scratch-dough will be sold for $1.50, Parlock said.

“You’ll see all of it happening,” he said, referring to students being able to watch the food preparation and cooking processes because of the kitchen tours.

Students will be allowed to re- quest special meals prepared for them by a chef in the new Penland Dining Commons, Parlock said. Dining services also is in the process of being a registered dietitian who can be on staff at the new dining facility.

“We’re not cutting corners on nutrition,” Parlock said. “We still be in the control of campus dining.”

Parlock said that the new facility will have 1,100 seats, which is almost double the number of seats at East Village Dining Commons. Most space indoors and outdoors will be reserved for students dining due to space offered at East Village Dining Commons, Penland said.

“It will have a more lavishly feel to it,” he said. “It’s going to be quite pretty, to be honest with you.”

To accommodate students with allergies, a gluten-free station will house gluten-free foods. Freshii will offer students the ability to choose between more than 70 honest ingredients, according to the company’s website. The new Freshii will offer students the ability to choose between more than 70 honest ingredients, including a salad bar, wraps, brown rice bowls or soup, the website said. They also serve breakfast and fresh-pressed yogurt.

The small Chick-Fil-A station in the Student Union Building will also be expanded because of a preference for a gluten-free diet, according to Parlock.

“D.Q., that’s what I like about Texas,” is only heard from Texas is unique because it has a good mix of urban and country life, Urbanek said.

“Both scratch-dough will be sold for $1.50, Parlock said.

“You’ll see all of it happening,” he said, referring to students being able to watch the food preparation and cooking processes because of the kitchen tours.

Students will be allowed to re- quest special meals prepared for them by a chef in the new Penland Dining Commons, Parlock said. Dining services also is in the process of being a registered dietitian who can be on staff at the new dining facility.

“We’re not cutting corners on nutrition,” Parlock said. “We still be in the control of campus dining.”

Parlock said that the new facility will have 1,100 seats, which is almost double the number of seats at East Village Dining Commons. Most space indoors and outdoors will be reserved for students dining due to space offered at East Village Dining Commons, Penland said.

“It will have a more lavishly feel to it,” he said. “It’s going to be quite pretty, to be honest with you.”

To accommodate students with allergies, a gluten-free station will house gluten-free foods. Freshii will offer students the ability to choose between more than 70 honest ingredients, according to the company’s website. The new Freshii will offer students the ability to choose between more than 70 honest ingredients, including a salad bar, wraps, brown rice bowls or soup, the website said. They also serve breakfast and fresh-pressed yogurt.

The small Chick-Fil-A station in the Student Union Building will also be expanded because of a preference for a gluten-free diet, according to Parlock.

“D.Q., that’s what I like about Texas,” is only heard from Texas is unique because it has a good mix of urban and country life, Urbanek said.

“Both scratch-dough will be sold for $1.50, Parlock said.

“You’ll see all of it happening,” he said, referring to students being able to watch the food preparation and cooking processes because of the kitchen tours.

Students will be allowed to re- quest special meals prepared for them by a chef in the new Penland Dining Commons, Parlock said. Dining services also is in the process of being a registered dietitian who can be on staff at the new dining facility.
With customer complaints on the rise, it seems that cable operators are finding themselves in the middle of a last-chance situation. Many subscribers are tired of having to pay for channels they don't watch or to switch between cable and satellite to watch their favorite shows. As a result, cable operators are looking to the Internet to find new ways to compete.

One area where cable operators have been successful is in the area of on-demand content. With the rise of streaming services like Netflix and Hulu, cable operators have been able to offer subscribers the ability to watch shows and movies on demand. This has been particularly popular with younger subscribers, who are more likely to use streaming services than traditional cable or satellite providers.

However, cable operators are also facing competition from other sources. For example, some companies are offering cable-free plans that allow subscribers to watch streaming services on their devices. These plans are often cheaper than traditional cable or satellite plans, and they are becoming more popular with younger subscribers.

As a result, cable operators are looking for ways to differentiate themselves from their competitors. One area that they are focusing on is the area of live sports. Many cable operators are offering packages that include local sports teams, while streaming services like YouTube TV only offer national sports networks.

In addition to live sports, cable operators are also looking to offer other services that are more difficult for streaming services to provide. For example, some cable operators are offering home automation services that allow subscribers to control their home appliances from their devices.

Overall, cable operators are facing a challenging environment, but they are also finding new ways to compete. With the rise of streaming services, cable operators are looking to offer services that are more attractive to younger subscribers. Whether they succeed or not remains to be seen, but it is clear that cable operators are taking steps to ensure their survival in the age of streaming.
The Baylor basketball team didn’t do much in the 2010s, but if you’d only seen their last few weeks, you might be impressed. But after Baylor (20-8, 8-6) big 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.

Baylor coach Scott Drew, the eternal optimist, could not find a team that managed to make the NCAA Tournament after that performance. But after Baylor’s (20-8, 8-6) 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.

Baylor coach Scott Drew, the eternal optimist, could not find a team that managed to make the NCAA Tournament after that performance. But after Baylor’s (20-8, 8-6) 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.

Baylor coach Scott Drew, the eternal optimist, could not find a team that managed to make the NCAA Tournament after that performance. But after Baylor’s (20-8, 8-6) 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.

Baylor coach Scott Drew, the eternal optimist, could not find a team that managed to make the NCAA Tournament after that performance. But after Baylor’s (20-8, 8-6) 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.

Baylor coach Scott Drew, the eternal optimist, could not find a team that managed to make the NCAA Tournament after that performance. But after Baylor’s (20-8, 8-6) 16-time vs. 30 times No. 16 Texas Tech, it’s possible you’d be impressed. The Bears upset the Red Raiders 61-58 on Wednesday night in Waco, Texas.
KUDELLA 5 Page 4

Although there was no cooperation between NATO and Ukraine, there have been no commit- tments to open Ukraine’s borders to temporary or permanent migration flows from the West or the EU. The Russian authorities are likely to use this issue to further isolate Ukraine, which is reeling from economic problems.

Q) Do you believe the United States has a right to get involved in the conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The Russian invasion of Crimea happened at the moment of greatest vulnerability of the Ukrainian state. Ukraine is bankrupt economically. It asked for the International Monetary Fund for a 1.5 billion dollar credit, and because it had to do on its own the debt to the IMF. Ukraine is actually borrowing state funds by the private sector. In addition, there is a tension within Ukraine, a major international crisis. Russia does not want to give up control of its eastern border in the period of historic events. Ukraine is now speaking out publicly of the Western world regarding the accession of Crimea and the Russian threats.

Q) If the United States would like to put some sanctions “on red alert,” how could this affect the United States?
A) If we take a look at the sanctions that have been imposed by the United States on Russia, it is evident that there are very few sanctions that are having an impact on Russia. In fact, the sanctions are having an impact on the US economy. The possibility of the US imposing sanctions “on red alert” would be a way to signal to Russia that there is a sense of urgency in the situation. However, it is important to note that the US is not the only country that is imposing sanctions on Russia. Other countries, such as the European Union, have also imposed sanctions on Russia. In this context, it is important to consider the broader geopolitical context and the potential consequences of imposing sanctions on Russia. The US government is likely to be mindful of the potential impact of sanctions on the US economy, as well as on other countries that have imposed sanctions on Russia.

Q) If you believe Russia is willing to wind down its military presence in Crimea, what does this mean for Ukraine?
A) If Russia is willing to wind down its military presence in Crimea, it would be a significant development for Ukraine. This would mean that Russia is starting to recognize the sovereignty of Ukraine and the international community’s recognition of Ukraine’s borders. It would also mean that Ukraine would be able to take control of its eastern border and prevent further military intervention from Russia. This would be a significant step towards resolving the conflict between Ukraine and Russia and restoring peace and stability in the region. However, it is important to note that the situation is complex and there are many factors that need to be taken into account when considering this development. It is essential to maintain dialogue and work towards a political solution to the conflict.

Q) How do you think the situation in Ukraine will evolve?
A) The situation in Ukraine is complex and evolving rapidly. It is difficult to predict how it will develop in the near future. There are several factors that need to be considered, including the international response to Russia’s actions, the role of the United Nations, and the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to note that the situation in Ukraine is not isolated and that it has implications for the region and the world. It is crucial to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country.

Q) Should we be concerned about a potential military conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The situation between Ukraine and Russia is tense and could escalate into a broader military conflict. It is important to continue to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is crucial to avoid any actions that could lead to a military conflict and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

Q) How do you think the United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine?
A) The United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine by continuing to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to continue to provide economic and military assistance to Ukraine and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. The United States can also play a role in facilitating dialogue between Ukraine and Russia, and in promoting international support for the efforts of the Ukrainian government.

PUTIN 5 Page 5

Moscow-from Dmitry Sutyagin, who holds dual citizenship, American and Russian, joins his Ukrainian wife Natalya Savy, left, during a protest rally in front of the Russian embassy in Washington, Tuesday.

Russian authorities on Monday decided that

Crimean authorities to do that, then of course it will be up to NATO leader- ship to respond to the threat of a non-existent military presence in Ukraine.

Q) Why do you believe Russia is willing to in- vest so much in the Crimea region?
A) There are several explanations for why Russia is willing to invest so much in the Crimea region. One explanation is that Russia wants to ensure its access to the Black Sea and maintain control of its naval bases in the region. Another explanation is that Russia wants to demonstrate its military strength and assert its influence in the region. Yet another explanation is that Russia wants to prevent the emergence of an independent Crimea or the annexation of Crimea by Ukraine, which is a potential threat to Russia’s national security. Finally, it is possible that Russia is willing to invest so much in the Crimea region in order to gain access to natural resources, such as oil and gas, that are present in the region.

Q) How do you think the situation in Ukraine will evolve?
A) The situation in Ukraine is complex and evolving rapidly. It is difficult to predict how it will develop in the near future. There are several factors that need to be considered, including the international response to Russia’s actions, the role of the United Nations, and the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to note that the situation in Ukraine is not isolated and that it has implications for the region and the world. It is crucial to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country.

Q) How do you think the United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine?
A) The United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine by continuing to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to continue to provide economic and military assistance to Ukraine and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. The United States can also play a role in facilitating dialogue between Ukraine and Russia, and in promoting international support for the efforts of the Ukrainian government.

Q) Should we be concerned about a potential military conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The situation between Ukraine and Russia is tense and could escalate into a broader military conflict. It is important to continue to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is crucial to avoid any actions that could lead to a military conflict and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

Q) How do you think the United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine?
A) The United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine by continuing to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to continue to provide economic and military assistance to Ukraine and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. The United States can also play a role in facilitating dialogue between Ukraine and Russia, and in promoting international support for the efforts of the Ukrainian government.

Q) Should we be concerned about a potential military conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The situation between Ukraine and Russia is tense and could escalate into a broader military conflict. It is important to continue to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is crucial to avoid any actions that could lead to a military conflict and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

Q) How do you think the United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine?
A) The United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine by continuing to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to continue to provide economic and military assistance to Ukraine and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. The United States can also play a role in facilitating dialogue between Ukraine and Russia, and in promoting international support for the efforts of the Ukrainian government.

Q) Should we be concerned about a potential military conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The situation between Ukraine and Russia is tense and could escalate into a broader military conflict. It is important to continue to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is crucial to avoid any actions that could lead to a military conflict and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

Q) How do you think the United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine?
A) The United States can contribute to resolving the conflict in Ukraine by continuing to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is important to continue to provide economic and military assistance to Ukraine and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict. The United States can also play a role in facilitating dialogue between Ukraine and Russia, and in promoting international support for the efforts of the Ukrainian government.

Q) Should we be concerned about a potential military conflict between Ukraine and Russia?
A) The situation between Ukraine and Russia is tense and could escalate into a broader military conflict. It is important to continue to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict and to support the efforts of the Ukrainian government to stabilize the country. It is crucial to avoid any actions that could lead to a military conflict and to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict.