ISR researcher writes on parallel themes between the Bible, Star Wars series

Foodless Follies

San Diego, Calif., freshman Shawna Stoddart, left, slides through green water Wednesday with Nashville, Tenn., freshman Hannah Pate Thursday | October 9, 2014

Counseling center partners with Bobo, moves to SUB

Demonstrations in Ferguson spread via activists’ efforts

Ebola patient’s death brings up questions
Shrinking classes, great quality education quality education

Editorial

For the past few years, Baylor has had record-breaking freshmen classes, and the following year, the class of 2017风貌. This class was composed of 11,457 students, with 2,843 incoming students. With such a large number of students, faculty and staff have noticed a decrease in the quality of education that students are receiving. This decrease is partly due to the large lecture classes that are offered, which can make it difficult for students to get to know their professors and receive the individual attention they need. Some classes also have high student-to-faculty ratios, which can make it difficult for students to get the help they need.

The plan that has been implemented in the past few years is the 10-Year Enrollment Management Plan. This plan has helped to moderate the number of majors by increasing the requirements for admission. This has resulted in a decrease in the number of majors in traditional prehealth and science programs. The plan will also help to moderate the number of majors by increasing the requirements for admission. This has resulted in a decrease in the number of majors in traditional prehealth and science programs.

The college is made up of 57 majors. In 2013, more than 46 percent of Baylor students were enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. These three are the most popular majors. These three are the most popular majors.

This Columbus Day — amidst a time when Columbus’ crimes, everyone could never become Americans. Father Michael McGivney. During his lifetime, he donated $1.5 billion to charity and raised the standard for what it means to be a good Catholic. Though Knights would continue to face hardships, they always accepted in American society. Their charity and acceptance in American society. Their charity and acceptance in American society. Their charity and acceptance in American society. Their charity and acceptance in American society.

This year, Baylor, Weatherford, and Walker will be hosting the 10th annual MLK Jr. Symposium. The theme of the symposium is "Celebrate Diversity, Embrace Difference.

The Baylor Lariat welcomes reader viewpoints through letters to the editor and guest columns. Letters should be concise and to the point. Please submit to: Baylor Lariat, The Lariat Building, Box 65023, Waco, TX 76798. Letters must be no longer than 250 words. All letters will be reviewed for clarity and content.

The Baylor Lariat welcomes reader viewpoints through letters to the editor and guest columns. Letters should be concise and to the point. Please submit to: Baylor Lariat, The Lariat Building, Box 65023, Waco, TX 76798. Letters must be no longer than 250 words. All letters will be reviewed for clarity and content.

This past summer, I went on a family trip to Washington, D.C. Despite being almost 1,500 miles from Waco, I got some great content for my column. Many in Washington talked to me about Robert F. Kennedy’s passion and current contributions to the Washington football team.

Other college football fans came up and talked to me when they asked about their favorite memories of being a fan of the College Football Playoff. Or when I brought up how the forthcoming season is not on

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.

This is a great time to be a student at Baylor. Whether you are a sports fan or not, the rise of Baylor athletics has played a critical role in increasing the national profile of the sports. The team is the most efficient way that the school can take the next step. I was at the North Carolina in 2012. I did not think much of it. But, Baylor was not on my radar. The next few months, we saw The Bears take on some of the top teams in the nation and win games like a pro.

This month, the Baylor basketball team traveled to Texas and played the South Carolina Gamecocks. The game was tense before losing to eventual champion Kentucky. Soon afterward, the Lady Bears were ranked No. 1 for the first time in school history and have maintained that position through the season. It has been a great season for the Bears!

As Baylor football continues to thrive, the university’s profile has risen in its branding profile. As Baylor fans, we are lucky to have a team that has won every conference title since 1958, has played in three national championships, and has been to the College Football Playoff.
WASHINGTON — Workers who fill customer orders for Internet retailer Amazon might be out of luck in their quest to be paid for security checkpoints each day. Integrity Staffing Solutions Inc., the temporary agency that fills customer orders for Amazon warehouses, employs workers at a Nevada warehouse who say their employer, Mark Cheeseman, requires compensation under the Walsh-Healy Public Contracts Act for security measures to prevent employee theft.

Business groups, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, say that security screenings are unrelated to the employers’ benefit. Whatever the outcome of the case, workers might be out of luck in their quest to be paid for security checkpoints each day.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

The dispute involves two forms of the Walsh-Healy Act. The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.

Several Supreme Court justices expressed concern Wednesday during arguments over whether federal law entities workers to compensate security measures to prevent employee theft.

The case is being watched closely by business groups concerned that employers could be liable for billions of dollars in retroactive pay for security check procedures that have become routine in retail and other industries.
say, the Force is not real, but it sure mad and it certainly plays, but I'm trying to look at it and say the same thing and think. What are the themes that are resonating here?

A lot of people have found [Luke and Leia] a real in- stance of what it means to be a friend, how good and evil and the imper- sonation of the friends that are working together to help each other.

Actually in my book there are four main themes that are par- allel. In fact, sort of taking the opposite approach because there are messages that come out of the movement that are old with the movement, but in my book it would deal as absolute, or "Producer of Heat, those are just some names of things."

So I'm trying to point out to some of those names are nothing that are not true and those people are not just created to create and knowing who [Luke and Leia] are a part of the gospel.

That's exactly with this book, more even than just parallels I'm offering some critique but I'm doing it in someone who really approached our lessons from the movies. So you aren't drawing hard lines to certain characters in the movement, but certain people in the gospel?

I would say it's more ideas and themes that I see in con- tact. I would say things like Luke Skywalker to Jesus and Darth Vader is the devil. I think when we start trying to push up some of the analogies that for the fact, they are illustrating and convey- ing people more than they end up helping.

What are you hoping this book will do for the movie? As I guess I have two major goals for it.

The first is, I would like to be a book that introduces the people of those who would not likely just go up the Bat and read Steven. In my experience, people in the science fiction community especially are pretty uninterested in the themes of faith. So I'm hoping by writing about these ideas and love and love as well as in the contact, to reach them with a truth that is important.

My second hope for it is that it will help people who are constructing believers who are re- centered in loving leaders, expe- rience opposite empires and who would rather love to talk about than, than, and than. I hope this book can be a means and a guide for deep experience and deep conversations.

The Baylor Lariat
THURSDAY | OCTOBER 9, 2014

Especially topics based around belong- ing are one of the themes I'm dealing with. Wood said.

"The counseling center staff hopes to increase the meeting times throughout the week, when student awareness of the program grows. A similar program, "Come As You Are," is a mentoring counseling with Baylor's Spiritual Life Center. Baylor psychologist Emma Wood, and the survey also asked students to describe where they would tell la- teration for students to go seeking help on campus. "The number one reason was the Md Late Student Life Center's counseling center and the second place result was the Bolo Spiritual Life Center. Photo".

Wood said this was the reason the counseling center decided to partner with the Bolo Spiritual Life Center in a similar group therapy service based out of the center.

"We don't know how many small group sessions are designed to be a safe, judged- ing free zone for students to talk about pressing issues in their lives."

Wood partners with Kristen Haehl- arden, the director for spiritual for- mation. "The two of them are on site to give us tips and help guide topic conversations. Baylor students have topics that they really talk to about, espe- cially topics around feeling anxious or to other people. Wood said.

"The counseling center staff be- lieves the new branches will widen awareness among Baylor students and allow them to feel more comfort- able with reaching out for help."

"We want to remove those barriers as much as possible," Marsh-Bell said. Information about Baylor's coun- seling center and services can be found at www.baylor.edu/counsel- ing_center/.

Of the six Ebola patients treated so far in the US, Duncan was the first who had close contact in one of the special hospital units set up to deal with highly dangerous germs. That’s because health officials knew how the disease was spread because the patients treated in Texas Health Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas so far.

Health officials also have said that any hospital with isolation ca- pabilities can treat Ebola patients, but Dallas Medical is one of the few in the country capable of treating an experimental antiviral drug.

He died "despite maximal re- suscitation efforts," according to Dr. Daniel Z mitra, director of the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"It’s likely the patient’s death is a result of the infection in the brain and other complications," said Dr. Z mitra.

Officials in Dallas are being monitored. Medical officials say to contain the virus that has cen- tered West Africa, the United States has reported 10 people reported dead. The disease can spread by direct contact with the bodily fluids of it already sick.

Officials have said everyone who had potential contact with Duncan is being monitored for symptoms of the highly contagious illness and in some cases, in-laboratory, stages, damage to vital organs.
Dr. Patricia Eberhart
The Baylor Lariat

The television career started as a comment on "Sur-cviously, what gets me through is I think of my sistake me through.

Q: Did you parents nurture your competitive nature, or was something you developed on your own?

A: I like healing, and I want to make things better.

Q: It had to feel like an episode of "Survivor" some-

A: I feel quite fulfilled at Fox and without a doubt the Q: What's not hard for me is just being with great people.

A: As a lawyer, you will see on a football field.

Q: Do you miss the debates on "The View"?

A: I can’t let the judgment of millions define who I am. I am already defined, thank

Q: For the show, you put your head down and say my prayers, the judgment is

A: At the end of the day it's "I hope I didn't let you down, I just want to honor you."
Kansas leads the Big 12, Baylor inconsistent early

By Jeremy Swindell

Junior midfielder Bri Campos, seven shutouts in 2014, and senior goalkeeper Mi

The Bears come close to

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Cyclones came into the Big 12 season over

Success against some of the league's best attacking forces in

Bears in blocks, but Baylor sur

Sophomore defensive special-

Kevin Freeman | Lariat Photographer

Baylor volleyball looks to shake off its three-match losing streak as it returns to the Ferrell Center to face Big 12 opponent Kansas at the

The Bears (10-8, 1-3) have yet to

Since then, they have dropped matches to Texas Tech at home and

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Winhawks boast the best win percentage in

Sophomore outside hitter Thea

Junior outside hitter Andie

Baylor and Kansas are

The Bears were also well-out-blocked at

This season, West Virginia

By Jeffrey Swindoll

Sophomore forward Nina Davis (13) attacks the basket on March 9 against Oklahoma State. The Lady Bears ranked No.2 in Big 12 poll

TCU (7-4-2, 0-1-2)

Junior outside hitter Sara McClinton is set for 7 p.m. at the Ferrell Center. The match is set for 7 p.m. at the Ferrell Center. The match was a four-set loss to No. 2

The Bear统计分析 defense has earned credibility against some of the league’s best attacking forces in their first three Big 12 matches. Baylor has posted seven victories in 2014, and senior goalkeeper Mi

Sophomore defensive specialist Catie Wait leads the backrow with 4.67 digs per set for the Jay-

She is the only player to average

Bears were also well-out-blocked at

Bears open their two-game Big 12 weekend at home

Malloy continues to lead the way

Sophomore outside hitter Tola Itiola (15) and junior outside hitter Thea

As Kansas State (10-13, 3-6-4)

Sophomore forward Nina Davis (13) attacks the basket on March 9 against Oklahoma State. The Lady Bears defeated the Cougars 65-47 in the second round of the Big 12 Championship in Oklahoma City. Olei

Baylor has losses five-set losses to both the match was a four-set loss to No. 2

TCU (8-9-2, 2-2-2)

Starting in Big 12 campaign on the road, after nine straight home games in the pre-conference season. West Virginia proved their grip by scoring

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted

Sophomores below ties Texas (10-2-1, 2-0-1)

The Bears come close to
gaining a win over a scrappy TCU side last week and

The Bears have posted