Medics take student to ER after collision

By Amia Leop

Paramedics rushed a student to the hospital after an accident that occurred around 3:30 p.m. Monday on the corner of Seventh Street and James Avenue. Officials at the scene of the accident said a student driving a car collided with another student driving a moped. Emergency medical services and two Waco police officers responded. No names were given at the scene of the accident.

“We went to the hospital but we don’t know the extent of his injuries,” Charity Matthews, an officer at the Waco Police Department said.

The driver of the car was custodial and remained at the scene to talk with officials.

The two students were the only ones involved with the accident and the scene was cleared quickly.

According to the Washington Post, 4,610 motorcyclists died in 2013 due to motorcycle-related injuries.

The advice to motorists from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is to simply “Share the road” with motorcyclists and be extra alert to help keep motorcyclists safe. Motorcyclists are reminded to make themselves visible to other motorists.

The condition of the student was unknown Monday night.

City planners in downtown Waco have proposed to change some downtown streets from their current one-way layouts to two-way, hoping to foster a sense of community activity.

Christopher Evilia, member of the Waco Metropolitan Planning Organization, said a study was conducted to rethink downtown streets, at the recommendation of downtown merchants and the Greater Waco Chamber of Commerce.

In recent months, specifically, Evilia said two-way roads were improvised Monday: A U.S. federal government, authorities are improvising Monday: A U.S.

BU professor speaks out against abuse

By Joe Fraty

Reporter

In light of October being Domestic Abuse Awareness Month, a Baylor professor spoke with the Lariat about her experiences in an abusive relationship, how she overcame it and what she learned: The Lariat does not identify victims of abuse.

Can you tell me about what happened?

I was married for seven years. We were very happy when we got married, but I learned that my husband had been hiding a long-term addiction, and, at first, I wanted to be by his side to help him heal. I felt like we were in that together. But, after repeated relapses, I felt like my grace was being taken for granted and there was no hope for healing.

Over the course of our relationship, patterns of emotional abuse became more pronounced. Things like holding me in silences, not letting me leave the room but refusing to talk, monitoring my activity, showing up at my office, invading my privacy, sabotaging things that were important to me.

Emotionally abusive relationships try to rewire your brain so you can’t think for yourself. The abuser will challenge any emotion.

Gay rights activist keeps ordination

WASHINGTON — An Army major directing the soldiers returning from the Ebola fight in West Africa to help with the Ebola crisis has ordered them to remain in their rooms, 24 single rooms and three double rooms, for 21 days and have their temperatures taken hourly for any Ebola symptoms.

On Friday, after five friends came down to lunch, he pulled out a handgun in the cafeteria at the school. The victims were Zoe R. Galasso, 14, who died at a hospital; Charlie Polei, 14, who died a hospital; Michaela Hallett, 14, who died at a hospital; Nata Haney, 14, who died at a hospital; and Andrew Fryberg, 15.

So for only 12 soldiers are in isolation in Italy, but dozens more soldiers are expected to return to Italy on the coming days and they will also go to the isolation facility.

Renshaw said he had no regrets for his actions.

Meanwhile, supporters of the Schaefer family are confident that they will be allowed to perform another gay marriage.

Rasberry said the military official, who was not identified, said the decision was based on science and that none of the soldiers have shown any signs of the virus.

The Schaefer family is an outspoken activist who has been living in Connecticut, where gay marriage had been legal since 2008. Schaefer said he had no regrets for his actions.

Andrew Fryberg also retained critical friends. He said he had no regrets for his actions.

Rasberry said the military official, who was not identified, said the decision was based on science and that none of the soldiers have shown any signs of the virus.

Troyer also confirmed that the officer-handled incident in the shooting had been legally purchased by one of Jaylen Fryberg’s relatives. It remains unclear how the boy obtained the weapon.

At the memorial outside the school Monday, a group of people held a candlelight vigil at 10:30 a.m. — the time the shooting was reported Friday.
One-way Leasing – according to the Imagine Waco core, “according to the Imagine Waco study, will create a new energy in the downtown area and parking options, “Evilia said. "We need to see how signals operating below their capacity,” Evilia said. "Both streets are accommodating 30 percent of volume they could accommodate in their current configuration.” In addition, Evilia said changing one-way streets to two-way would let people get across town much more quickly and would therefore create a more attractive for Waco transportation services.

"Coming from one end of the street to the other could take you two hours,” Evilia said. “Will like 10 to 15 minutes to get from point A to point B and provide a more viable option for people to use the transit system.”

Dunia said the process could take up to a couple years to finish, but in the next step of the process will be to conduct another transportation study to outline how the project will be implemented.

"We need to see how nodes operate, how markings will change and figure out if we have enough room to have more lanes and parking options,” Evilia said. "We also need a hand of input from citizens, to know whether that is good, bad or otherwise.”

City planners propose a change in the one-way road system in downtown Waco. Washington Avenue and Franklin Avenue will take priority if any changes are made.

New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie addressed a gathering Wednesday over the state’s preparations for Ebola treatment at Hackensack University Medical Center in Hackensack, N.J. New York and New Jersey’s governors announced Friday that any health care worker coming from West Africa to their states would have to undergo mandatory 21-day quarantines. Other states including Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota and Georgia have since announced similar requirements. Some other governors, like Rhode Island Democratic Lincoln Chafee, argued his colleagues Monday in “VHosid aon some of the rhetoric” since scientists have repeatedly said that people carrying the virus are not contagious until they show symptoms. Ebola care has consequences beyond public health. New York City school officials warned principals to be on the lookout for bullying of West African students after two Brooklyn students from Angola, which the World Health Organization declared free from Ebola this month, reported being taunted with chants of “Ebola.” Meanwhile, maria Keilholtz was on the road, driving in a private car from New Jersey to her home in Maine. She was freed Monday from the quarantine tent where Gov. Chris Christie said she had been kept since Friday “because she was running a high fever or two hours,” Evilia said. “We’d like to help and get support.”

Baylor volleyball used a potent presence at the net and a huge comeback in double overtime to beat Iowa State in the first round of the conference Tournament coming next week, at the Ferrell Center.

The Bears (12-11, 2-6 Big 12) dropped the first two sets and took the last three to beat the Cyclones 20-25, 26-24, 25-22, 15-10.

Baylor took its first set over Big 12 opponent for the first time since a five-set victory on Sept. 27 against Kansas State and snapped a six-match conference losing streak.

"I was so proud of the Bears, they went all out there, and that's what you want to see at all-out effort on every single ball. Coach Barnes and Ms. Hill and Ms. Burch just up there. That's what broke Iowa State's heart," Jim Barnes said.

With the win, the Bears took their first set over Iowa State (11-8, 3-5 Big 12) since Sept. 23, 2009, and ended a six-match losing streak to the Cyclones. The Bears also won its first come-from-behind victory since its five-set victory over TCU in 2014.

Junior middle hitter Adrian Boulding of the Bears with 11 kills at the net with a 333 attack offer. The Bears were joined by junior outside hitter Thao Nguyen with 12 kills and senior middle hitter Sam Hill with 11.

In the back row, four Baylor volleyball used a power-attack effort at the net with 19 kills. The Bears evened their overall Georgia on Saturday.

The Bears dominated their way to a 14-1 victory over the Mustangs, and currently sit at 6-0 after upsetting No. 7 TCU and defending national champion and top-ranked Georgias on Friday and Saturday at the Willie Family Equestrian Center to stay perfect on the season.

On Friday, the Bears (6-0, 2-2 Big 12) used a 3-0 sweep in overtime to pull away from TCU (1-1, 0-1 Big 12) for their second conference win with this victory. Baylor and the Horned Frogs tied in equitation on the flat, but TCU defeated the Bears in both reining and equitation over fences to keep it a close match up. With the sweep in equitation, Baylor took a close 2-1 victory over TCU.

Junior middle Mary Matousek earned two points for Baylor in reining and had a huge kill by Richburg. The Bears a crucial 25-21 fourth set win and downed the Cyclones.

With one more game against the Bulldogs after big performances by Schaefer and sophomore hunter seat Savannah Elkins in their respective events. The Bears took a 4-0 win in reining while Baylor took control of the set.

Baylor will take a break from competition and returns to Big 12 play against Kansas State on Nov. 15. The meet will start at 4 p.m. at the Willis Family Equestrian Center.
