18. Iowa State was crushed by a 21-yard overtime field goal in its second game, coming off a 48-45 loss to Texas on Oct. 11. The Cyclones opened the scoring with 10 points, but Texas answered with 35 in the second quarter. Knight finished with 318 passing yards, four touchdowns and two interceptions; the Cyclones’ defense was one-dimensional, recording just 12 tackles.

No. 15 Florida defensive coordinator Joker Phillips was looking for a way to stop the Sooners’ offense, and he got one. The defense limited Oklahoma to 140 passing yards with four interceptions against former quarterback Blake Bell. The defense has played well in conference, leading the way with 43 sacks.

No. 13 Baylor football looks to get back on track against Kansas

By Jeff Miller

Senior wide receiver Antwan Goodley (5) runs away from a Horned Frog defender during Baylor’s 61-58 win on Oct. 11 against TCU at McLane Stadium in Waco. The Bears return to McLane this Saturday to face Kansas.

Russell entered into the Baylor Na- tion and started their red hot streak against the University of Kansas at 5 p.m. Saturday. The Jayhawks have come from within the Bears’ own back yard. The defense is in a rut and the offense is struggling to find a replacement for Baker who led the team to new heights. The defense has struggled against Oklahoma and Texas States. The defense ranks fourth in the league in third-down conversion and the team is a part of the Big 12 championship. “It was a really good win the other night,” Briles said. “We had a lot of guys who were up to the task and we were able to get it done.”

The defense guy is a monster. The senior in wide world of sports, Briles said about everything. He always knew what to do but the other guys on the line can fill in too.”

The secondary is the strength of the entire team. Senior linebacker Ben Heeney has been to all games but 29. They have been to a game in every conference every year. They have been to all games against Oklahoma State and Texas Tech, the most important game for the team.

The Bears started the season with a perfect record against Northwestern State and Buffalo. Baylor’s signature, high-powered, pass-heavy attack has shut down defenses in the early going. Their porous defense has yet to find a replacement for Baker who led the team to new heights. The defense has struggled against Oklahoma and Texas States. The defense ranks fourth in the league in third-down conversion and the team is a part of the Big 12 championship. “It was a really good win the other night,” Briles said. “We had a lot of guys who were up to the task and we were able to get it done.”

Lady Bears look to forge new identity this season

By Jeffrey Swindoll

Lady Bears' basketball huddles together before its Jan. 28 game against the Texas Tech Red Raiders in Waco. The Lady Bears co-hosted the Red Raiders' 52-43 at the Ferrell Center. The Lady Bears prepare to open their 2014-15 campaign on Tuesday.

"We've got 38 points. We've got to replace with Odyssey and Makayla (Robinson) living large," Mulkey said.

The return of senior guard Alexis Prince from a season-ending foot injury in 2013 will help bolster Mulkey's lineup.

"Prince was on the sideline for nearly all of last season with a medical boot on her foot. Her ability to encourage her team without being able to suit up helped her become one of the team's leading voices. Prince is likely to be in the starting five for the Lady Bears," Mulkey said.

"Prince hasn't missed a practice, she hasn't limped, hasn't had to wear the boot at all," Mulkey said. "When you have a player of her size with her skills and mentality, it makes your team so much better. We would have been much better last year if she was healthy. We anticipate her being a big factor for us. We've done all we can to prepare her and get her healthy."

The Lady Bears also saw senior forward Nina Davis, a 5-foot-11 senior, step her game up. Davis was named All-Big 12 first team and Big 12 Freshman of the Year last season, the Associated Press also ranked the Lady Bears No. 8 in the nation.

"But I know this year, in order to be a leader, more vocal. As you can see on the court, I don't like to talk a lot," Davis said. "Before the season started, (Mulkey and I) had a meeting, and there was one thing she told me and that was that I need to be more of a leader, more vocal. As you can see on the court, I don't like to talk a lot. But I know this year, in order to be a leader, I'll be quiet."

Junior guard Odyssey Sims will likely be the offensive maestro in the 2014-15 season for the Lady Bears. Last year, Odyssey was the team leader in assists and boasted the most assist/turnover ratio in the country (4.0). However, much of her offensive responsibilities were deferred to Sims, the leader of the Lady Bears' attack.

Johnson was more than happy to dish out passes to Sims for layups last season, but he may have the ball in his hands more of this season. Johnson is in the driver's seat now, and she can assist and score at will, Mulkey said.

"I used to pass, pass, pass, and this year I have to look to do more scoring instead of passing," Johnson, who started 37 games, "I'd rather pass than shoot. I just love to watch my teammates score off my assists. Now I don't have any choice but to shoot."

Although Davis and Johnson were some of the most productive players in points and assists last season, the departure of Sims and Makayla Robertson leaves a huge gap in the scoring department for the Lady Bears. Mulkey and her staff are searching for the players to carry the load this season.

"We're going to have to find out who can do that," Mulkey said. "Scrimmaging is a big part of it, but I don't know what we have out there. We've got 38 points. We've got to replace with Odyssey and Makayla (Robinson) living large."

The Bears look to turn around their season and not just quickly as it was turned around, but it’s going to take a team effort, Malloy said. “It’s definitely time for us to work and stay with our flow and look for opportunities,” Malloy said. “We are taking this one game at a time, and the team is just taking it one step at a time.

As the Bears make the upward climb to the top, the team knows that the road will be tough, but they are always looking forward to the next level, working hard, and keeping up with their teams. We can win if we keep pushing,” Malloy said.

Kawhi Leonard will play tonight

SAN ANTONIO — NBA Finals MVP Kawhi Leonard is set to make his season debut for the San Antonio Spurs tonight against the Phoenix Suns.

Leonard missed the final six preseason games and the season opener against Dallas due to an infection in his right eye.

The 23-year-old Leonard averaged 12.8 points, 6.2 rebounds and 1.7 steals in the Spurs last season while shooting 52 percent from the field. But he has been limited to the playoffs as the Spurs relied on their fifth-year veterans.

In the final three games of last season, Leonard averaged 23.7 points and 9.3 rebounds and shot 46.4 percent to earn MVP honors.

Leonard is set to make his regular-season debut tonight against the Suns.

Leonard missed the Spurs roll to their fifth championship.

Sophomore middle hitter Tola Itiola has never played a sport before the eighth grade, let alone volleyball.

Born in Lagos, Nigeria, Itiola came to the United States in 2008 with her parents and brother, Malloy, who plays for the Bears. She attended Carroll Christian Academy, where she decided to give it a try.

During tryouts in middle school, she needed several more breaks and tried to continue the trend. She couldn't serve a ball over the net and was unable to block press much weight during the team's off-season program.

However, Itiola used this as an opportunity to go into something that she believed, that if she put it one step up, she'd be in the varsity team, but once she made the varsity team, her confidence grows every match, Tola said.

"It was awesome to hear her say that and be free enough to do what I love," Malloy said. "It's been saved, so she told us just to go out there and play with freedom, " Malloy said. "It was her game."

Sophomore middle hitter Tola Itiola prepares for a point against Iowa State on Oct. 25 in Waco. The Bears won 3-2 over the Cyclones to snap a six-game Big 12 losing streak.

"God truly is a plan," Malloy said. "Even though we have no idea what the future holds, we know that He is in control of everything."

"I've grown a great love for this game," Itiola said. "The opportunity to play volleyball and be a Baylor Bear is a huge blessing from God."
Soccer hopes to finish season strong

35 bow’s a season of ups and downs for Baylor soccer. The Bears were tested by strong opponents and produced some impressive victories, but struggled with being consistent in Big 12 play. The Bears’ regular season of mixed results ended at 7 p.m. tonight in Morgantown, W.Va. against the conference-leading West Virginia.

Baylor started the season with a lot of a measuring stick, playing against the national powerhouse University of Florida in Gainesville, Fla. The Bears only managed to get one shot off against the Gators, but Baylor co-head coach Mary Jobson described it as “the best we’ve ever coached against.” From there, the Bears saw the areas in which they needed to improve.

The Bears returned to Waco and remained undefeated in six games at Butler Louis Field before losing conference play against Kansas. Home wasn’t the only place the Bears found success in the two conference scheduals. The nationally-ranked BYU and Notre Dame face-off against the Bears in the middle of the conference season when things get a little shady for the Bears. BYU came to Waco and escaped with a 2-0 win in conference play against the Bears.

The Bears enter conference play with an exciting goal to accomplish. Campos leads her team with six goals and is the first line of defense in front of Baylor’s goalie. Campos is the most valuable player. The goal that we’ve had all season is to make it to the end of the season. Eric has held up really, really well. I think that this is a chance for us to again nationally come in, run well and then sort of fizzle out they can be,” Jobson said.

The Bears enter conference play with a win or the Bears will be right behind them, in conference play at Waco State at home, just two days after a dominating win over Kansas.
