In its longest meeting of the 62nd session, student senators voted Tuesday to not remove two senator class officers and a student senator from office based on disciplinary issues regarding attendance brought against them by the Senate Executive Council.

"Since the proceedings took place during an executive session, we can’t comment on the nature of the reports for reorganization," said Port Barre senator Lindsey Bagley, public relations chair for the internal vice president. "Fran-Dominick said, however, attendance was the principal cause of the charge brought against the officers and senator.

"Those called into questions were notified last week by email of the charges brought against them. Our attendance was the principal issue," saidsenior senator from office, based on disciplinary issues regarding attendance brought against them by the Senate Executive Council. Further an attendance and now a volunteer at the annual Friends of the Waco-McLennan County Library book sale, he is passionate for reading and respect for the event have only grown through the years.

The free-admission event, which is held at the Extraco Events Center, started Thursday evening and runs until 9 p.m. Sunday, with over 110,000 used books, DVDs, CDs, and more, and words by nearly 200 vendors throughout the weekend. Gaul Ford, vice president of the event, said it’s volunteerism like Gimlet that make the weekend possible.

"I was 10 years old at the time, and my dad had promised me anything I wanted if I went to the doctor to check out my symptoms. Well, one of the side effects of diabetes is a very dry mouth, I was thirsty all the time. As we were leaving the doctor’s office, I saw a Pepsi vending machine. I begged my dad and reminded him he said I could have whatever I wanted—so he bought me a Pepsi.

When we got home, the doctor called to ask how my庭审. Apparently my blood sugar levels read at 719—and that was before the soda. The highest it’s ever supposed to be is 150. My dad put down the phone and thought he had done the worst thing in the world giving me that soda. He rushed me to a hospital, and looked at my dad and reminded him he said I could have whatever I wanted—so he bought me a Pepsi.

According to the Student Senate fyler, the president of the Student Senate has the right to declare what constitutes an excused and unexcused absence. In some cases, a majority vote by the council can also make the difference.

Any student who wishes to remain in office upon the resignations receipt must go before the Student Senate for consideration. The council will then vote on whether or not to restore the ofcice or seat from other.

Bilgo and Gina Hughes, the owners of H2 Office, can tell the inside to their new business. H2 Office features realistic scenarios using real wom-persons to prepare clients for what could occur in an armed situation.

"We didn’t have executive training when we got down, we put all of that on our own and did the rest of the hands-on, level of hands-on with comfort zone," Ms. Hughes said. "We think that’s very important. We can’t have students sitting in a chair."

"We are working on a line of products that is designed to simulate what a terrorist or active shooter would do, to simulate that environment," Ms. Hughes said.

"We have a lot of products to offer that can be used for training purposes. We can simulate different scenarios and even incorporate video elements into simulations," Ms. Hughes said.

"By creating these simulations, we hope to prepare our clients to handle dangerous situations and make informed decisions in emergency situations," Ms. Hughes said.

The simulations are designed to be realistic and interactive, allowing clients to experience various scenarios and learn about effective responses.

"These simulations provide a safe and controlled environment for clients to practice their response strategies and develop critical thinking skills," Hughes said.

"We believe in providing clients with the best possible training to ensure their safety and well-being," Hughes said.

"Our goal is to help our clients feel more confident and prepared to handle real-life situations they may encounter," Hughes said. "We want to provide them with the tools they need to make informed decisions in emergency situations."
Second Annual Miss Green and Gold Pageant
6:30 p.m. Saturday Waco Hall Free Admission

Contestants will be participating in the second annual Miss Green and Gold Pageant at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in Waco Hall. The winner chosen from 26 contestants will have a chance to compete for the title of Miss Texas and, potentially, Miss America.

Baylor senior and pageant founder Amira Lewally said she realized her freshman year that Baylor did not have its own pageant.

According to the pageant’s website, the contest, now known as the Miss Green and Gold Pageant, is “to recognize the talents of the young women of Baylor University through scholarship, leadership and philanthropy.”

Lewally said she decided to start the pageant as a way to show leadership and philanthropy. “Baylor University through scholarship, talent and leadership is what we, as young women at Baylor, can contribute to,” she said.

The winner, chosen from 26 contestants, will have a chance to compete in the Miss USA and Miss America judging systems.

One winner will be crowned Miss Green and Gold with two runners-up. The prize for coming in the top three are scholarships. The first place winner will be awarded $1,500; the second place winner will win $1,000; and the third place winner will win $500.

Contestants practive for the second Annual Miss Green and Gold Pageant on Thursday night. Of the 26 particpants, one will be crowned Miss Green and Gold and will receive a $1,500 scholarship.

Contests are being held from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. before the pageant. Starting at midnight and ending at 6 p.m., prior to the pageant, there will be refreshments and food for purchase.

The final two rounds, an opening number and an interview conducted in private, will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday in Waco Hall. Of the 26 participants, three other contestants will be crowned Miss Congeniality, Crowned Favorite and Socialite. Contestants will be determined by attendee votes.

The holiday season is starting with a bang as the Junior League of Waco’s annual Deck the Halls event kicks off tonight.

Lanissa Willis, a board chairperson for the event, has been planning this event for a year along with her fellow committee members.
