Shooting for open carry with no license misses mark

With a Republican-controlled state legislature and a new governor who once referred to himself as a "14-year-old kid on the open carry of handguns. At all its bills pending in the Senate, the NRA has beenendorsed by the gun rights movement.

Legislating open carry may seem like a simple step toward preserving Second Amendment rights. However, any bill that legalizes handgun open carry poses a challenge for the state and presents an opportunity for some to ride it.

Robert Darden, associate professor of journalism, public relations and new media, samples some of the music he believes was missed in the critically acclaimed movie “Selma.”

“I would just have liked to hear some of the music that transfixed and later transcended Selma. What songs should have been heard in the movie?”

For the march in Selma, in particular, “I would have loved to hear a Civil Rights Memorial architect sang all the way through the march as a freedom song and “We Are A People” sang all the way through ‘Selma, We Are A People.” And the other one, “Oh, Freedom,” was the march as a freedom song and “We Are A People.” And the other one, “Oh, Freedom,” was the march as a freedom song and “We Are A People.”
