Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani began Wednesday night with the experiences the former mayor is best known for: the Sept. 11 attacks on New York City.

President and Chancellor Ken Starr asked Giuliani about his response to the attacks, as well as his leadership techniques and mayoral strategies.

Starr reminded the audience of the country’s emotions after September 11th about exactly fourteen years ago. He also brought to mind the emblem of healing that Giuliani represented to the American people at that time.

“The leadership that Mayor Rudy Giuliani showed was just extraordinary,” Starr said. “I think all Americans see that Rudy rose above negative following as well.

Throughout their conversation the audience was alternately provoked to laughter and collective groans of sympathy.

“Every time he would say something the audience was in full agreement. He was very in tune with what everyone was feeling,” said Waco junior Emily Neel.

Giuliani remembered the day’s personal losses were perhaps what took the greatest toll on him, Giuliani said. Throughout their conversation the audience was alternately provoked to laughter and collective groans of sympathy.

“I took the greatest toll on him, Giuliani said. "But I have to say to you that it was the last one I had. I have gone through everything that I thought I could be."

Giuliani’s. The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani

Get to know Giuliani

Former NYC mayor chats about his pursuit of politics and his visit to Baylor

HELENA HUNT
Staff Writer

The On Topic conversation with President and Chancellor Ken Starr last night, former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani sat down with the Lariat for an exclusive newspaper interview on his life, his legal career, and the time he almost became a priest. Now, even those who didn’t have the opportunity to see Giuliani speak in Waco Hall will have the chance to get some of the former mayor and presidential candidate’s advice.

Giuliani
Kings of late-night

Don’t let gender take away from talent and evening hosts

Since the early days of "The Ed Sullivan Show," late-night talk shows have been an important part of the American landscape and have evolved into a subculture in themselves. Now, millions of women gather each night to watch the celebrity-crammed shows and see if these new imitators can top the legendary hosts that have come before them. However, the prestige of late-night comedy has recently been共享 some attention.

In 1962, NBC’s "The Tonight Show" hosted by Steve Allen became the first late-night show to have a diverse audience. Allen had a uniquely late-night sensibility, and this show was a huge hit. More recently, there has been a huge shift in hosts sitting behind the desk. Only recently has there been a huge shift in hosts sitting behind the desk.

Larry Wilmore, Jimmy Fallon and Bill Maher. This has led to the rebranding of the late-night genre and the creation of a new era of late-night hosts.

But this shift should not take away from giving these 10 funny gentlemen their due. As Stephen Colbert has said, the late-night genre has earned its spot. As many do about non-existence sexism, thus creating another thing that the market today. And certainly, Ellen DeGeneres has made a fortune off her daytime talk show, making her one of the most successful talk show hosts of all time.

However, for the majority of women comedians, it is much easier to become successful in the daytime talk show genre. And certainly, Ellen DeGeneres has made a fortune off her daytime talk show. She is credited in the article with revitalizing the daytime talk show genre.

For years, I’ve carried this odd image of Feminism in my mind. We’re moving away from the idea that men are entitled to sex for any reason and to women without consent. Rather than making men objectify women, we’re showing them the consequences of objectifying others. And certainly, Ellen DeGeneres has expanded her brand into all areas of life.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or "hook-ups," is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. /This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or “hook-ups,” is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. Casual sex could run circles around many male comedians on television. This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or “hook-ups,” is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. Casual sex could run circles around many male comedians on television. This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or “hook-ups,” is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. Casual sex could run circles around many male comedians on television. This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or “hook-ups,” is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. Casual sex could run circles around many male comedians on television. This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.

I understand their logic. Casual sex, or “hook-ups,” is something that men and women do every day. But really, there is no controversy here. Casual sex could run circles around many male comedians on television. This is the most dangerous setup for perpetuating male sexual entitlement. Male sexual entitlement is a belief that men are entitled to sex at any time, for any reason, and without consent. This belief is reinforced by the way in which men are socialized and how society teaches men that they can do whatever they want. The idea that feminism suggests that casual sex is empowering to women is incorrect. Casual sex feeds into male sexual entitlement in a major way.
On the first Wednesday of this month, under the supervision of the Lady Bears’ basketball assistant coach Toyelle Wilson, 26 men fought to get a spot on the “dream team” for the Lady Bears.

The dream team is an organization made up of male basketball players who practice with the women to prepare them for the tough competition later this season.

“We are looking for roughly 10 new team members to add to our returning 16,” Wilson said. “We are looking for guys who can compete with our girls, and make them better.”

Many of the men tried out had stellar high school careers and plan to bring these skills to the collegiate level. They wanted to show and give the pressure that the Lady Bears will be seeing later in the season. The night started off with drills, and 4-on-4 scrimmaging.

Throughout the night both players worked on their knees. One even pushed so hard that he didn’t perform at the highest level. Although struggling with the outside shots, Wood was happy with his post moves.

“I feel like I can definitely be a good addition to the team. I’m ready, ” Ramos said.

Monte Pleasant junior Darian Hall, a 6-foot point guard, should present a threat to Kristy Wallace, the 5-foot-11 sophomore guard from Loganbahne, Queensland, Australia. While Wallace's speed, athleticism, and outside shooting impressed Adams last season, competition does not scare Hill who is used to the pressure after a solid high school career as a point guard. In fact, Hill said he was ready for the challenge.

“Definitely going to be some competition,” Hill said.

“The Lady Bears open competition against other women's teams in the Ferrell Center on Nov. 3.
Beatles tribute band to perform in Waco

By JULIE TATE

The Beatles are back and in town. Well, not exactly, but the next best thing is Beatles tribute band, Beatlemania 64 will perform at 7:30 p.m. today at the Waco Hippodrome Theatre.

A little over 15 years ago, the group started off as a country band that branched out and did a Beatles and Elton John tribute show under the name Johnny Mandal and the Muddcatts.

“We were country guys, but we needed to reach a wider audience,” said Mark Nix, the lead singer for Beatlemania 64.

Not only does Nix play John Lennon for Beatlemania 64, he is also the only original member still performing with the group. He still remembers how the band got its big break.

“During this time period the band was playing up to 180 shows per year. For performances, this was a side job. It was a lifestyle, Nix said. "I changed my whole life. It became a career," Nix said.

The original Johnny Mandal and the Muddcatts got a new name when Nix received a call from Sid Bernstein, the music producer and promoter who brought the Beatles to America back in the 1960s.

Bernstein had been keeping up with the Beatles tribute band through the knowledge of his family members and was impressed by what they were doing, so he decided to reward the band in a unique way.

“He wanted to make us the only band to be endorsed by the guy who brought the Beatles to America,” Nix said.

What Bernstein passed away in 2013, the band was encouraged to rename their group using “Beatlemania,” a word Bernstein held the rights to while alive. In order to use “Beatlemania” in the name, however, the band had to tag it with an additional word or number.

“We came up with the number 64, which means the year (The Beatles) came to America,” Nix said.

Since renaming the band Beatlemania 64, the group has toured all over the Caribbean on celebrity cruise ships in addition to performing across regions in the United States. Even though they have traveled abroad to several places while on tour, band members said they excited to play songs like “I Wanna Hold Your Hand” for a Central Texas audience in the historic Waco Hippodrome.

Beatlemania 64 drummer Reto Tandy and Nix both live in the area and are excited to have their families watch them perform tonight.

“So far around 150 people have gotten their tickets for the show, but Kirk Richards, general manager for the Hippodrome, expects many more people to purchase tickets,” Richards said. “Attendance is picking up rapidly.”

Tickets are set at $20 for a balcony seat and $40 for a ground seat, and can be purchased at the Hippodrome website or box office.
ABROAD

from Page 1

Dallaglio said Baylor in London is only offered in the fall semester. Though it’s only a short time, English-said students return more confident and willing to encourage other students to try study abroad.

“We want you to read great literature, see great art, experience various cultures so that you can do something really fantastic with your life,” said Dr. Allen Smith, co-director of the Baylor in Italy summer program. “We try to get students to think about the big questions in life, like why they came to Baylor, and not just career goals but possible goals. It’s a formative experience.”

Every program is different. Dallaglio said students often find one program that sparks their interest above the others. For some it may be the European castles, for others it may be cross-cultural business projects.

“Students walk away with an experience from the East and saying, ‘I did something real. I made an impact on a company,’” Bradley Norris, director of operations at Baylor in China, said. “Every one of those projects is a million dollar plus project. We’ve got students helping companies make decisions on million dollar ideas.”

“Sometimes there’s someone who I like, I don’t really know about studying abroad. I say, ‘Let’s get coffee, let’s talk about it.’ Because I promise, sitting in an office talking about the classes you’re going to take is much more threatening than sitting with someone who’s been there and can answer the questions on what you’re actually afraid of.” Dallaglio said students must have completed 30 hours at Baylor and have a clear judicial record or consent by the Center for International Education in order to be considered for study abroad. Minimum GPAs vary by program.

For more information, visit the Center for Global Engagement on the 2nd floor of the Poage Library or check out www.bearsabroad.baylor.edu. Information meetings are also a good way to meet study abroad alumni and meet the program directors.

Thursday, September 24, 2015
The Baylor Lariat
5 career?

What’s that brought you to Baylor?

Well, two things Mr. Bailey, my good friend Roy Bailey, and his dad who was my uncle was the former director of Baylor and the Bailey family.

And Ken Starr, who was my favorite professor at the Justice Department when we were little boys. Ken was the chief of staff to Attorney General Bill Smith in the Reagan administration, and I was the chief legal officer in the Justice Department, the senior attorney in the Attorney General, during the Reagan administration. We spent those years working together and have been good friends, Ken and his wife and I, have been good friends since then. So, it’s a combination of the Bailey family and Ken Starr that brought me here.
HITTING A WALL

Twisted Root to open despite exterior delays

REBECCA FLANNERY
Arts Editor

Twisted Root Burger Co. is upping its Dallas food-court and opening shop at 11 a.m. Monday at 801 S. Second St. However, while the interior is open for business, the outside is yet to be painted.

Hitting a wall

“Twisted theme. Every side of the old Texas Playhouse will be painted,” said Michael Cooper, general manager of the establishment. “It’s a bit upset over that, but there’s nothing we can do about weather conditions.”

Dan Holzschoh, the independent muralist hired for the paint job, said he and his assistant were given two weeks to complete the entire exterior building.

“We had these proofs drawn up about 80 days ago,” Holzschoh said. “Twisted is very attitude, “Cooper said. “Right now we’re basing a lot of operational things off of the SMU location we have [in Dallas], “Cooper said. “We haven’t determined the location we have [in Waco],” Cooper said. “Right now we’re basing a lot of operational things off of the SMU location we have [in Dallas],” Cooper said.

And running.

But we’re ready to get the place up and running. “We’re all really excited to open,” Cooper said. “This whole thing is a newfound community we’re going to have burgers as the spaceships. ‘War of the Worlds’ was going to have to change a few things, “Holzschoh said. “We tried to reach out to Wave-based artists, tag-artists and painters for help,” Holzschoh said. “‘War of the Worlds’ was going to have to change a few things, “Holzschoh said.

“Originally this scene from ‘War of the Worlds’ was going to have to change a few things, “Holzschoh said. “We’ve mostly unapologetic things and unapologetic things as bars. We haven’t received any food today,” Cooper and his administrative team will be training new employees on Friday, he said. “They will continue accepting applications on a rolling basis, and Cooper said he’s always willing to hire someone with a positive disposition. “We love big smiles and a good attitude,” Cooper said.

The team began operations about 80 days ago.

“Wre were all really excited to open,” Cooper said. “This whole thing is a new community we’re going to have burgers as the spaceships. We haven’t received any food today,” Cooper and his administrative team will be training new employees on Friday, he said. “They will continue accepting applications on a rolling basis, and Cooper said he’s always willing to hire someone with a positive disposition. “We love big smiles and a good attitude,” Cooper said. The team began operations about 80 days ago.
ICYMI: Briles, Bears deal with distractions.

How have the Bears fought through off-field issues in 2015?

Full feature online.

NCAA Football Week 4 Roundup

Conference play in full swing with TCU at Tech, UCLA at Arizona this week

TYLER CAGLE
Sports Writer

Week three of the college football season saw a lot of shake-ups in the rankings. With Alabama, USC and Georgia Tech all losing this past weekend, three top-15 names have new homes in the polls.

TCU 35, TEXAS TECH 41

No. 3 TCU at TEXAS TECH, 3:30 p.m. FOX

NCAA Football Week 4 Roundup

The Horned Frogs might be a victim. While stringing together the No. 1 spot in the rankings with Og Khan, the Horned Frogs have played noticeably better than last season.

With a 3-0 record, the Horned Frogs have gotten into some sloppy contests against Missouri and SMU.

TCU will also be hurting on defense, as they have almost lost four minutes to injury, suspension or leave of absence.

Texas Tech comes off a solid showing against Arkansas. Although the Razorbacks have been suspended for three games, Solomon seems to be at the height of his game. UCLA’s defense allowed 405 yards to BYU, something that Solomon could certainly exploit.

On offense, Arizona could also see the return of All-American linebacker Scooby Wright, who has been in the off-season. Wright was a standout All-American last season, winning the Nagurski, Lombard and Bednarik awards as the nation’s top defender and linebacker in 2014.

Against the Bruins last season, Wright registered 18 tackles, a career high. If he is out on the field for the Wildcats, look for them to play at a very high level both physically and emotionally.

UCLA 26, ARIZONA 34

While the other top three teams also play this weekend, expect all three to win big. Ohio State plays Western Michigan and should live up to its No. 5 position.

TCU 35, TEXAS TECH 41

No. 3 UCLA at No. 16 ARIZONA, 8 p.m. ABC

Follow and tweet us: @jdavis_second

We're on Twitter

Follow and tweet us:

@BULariatSports
@Jeffreywindoll
@davis_second
@Cagdaddy53

#FridayNightFútbol

Soccer opens
Big 12 play Friday night against Oklahoma State.

Full preview online.

Have yourself a game, Mr. Fournette!

Josh’s weekly Heisman Shortlist

pg. 8

The Baylor Lariat

Thursday, September 24, 2015

The Baylor Lariat

pg. 8

BAY LARIAT.COM

BAY LARIAT.COM

Study in Scotland!

If you want to study abroad, experience new cultures, and travel while still taking classes that go toward your major and minor, then St Andrews is the place for you.

Live and learn at one of the finest universities in the United Kingdom, set in a beautifully quaint city located only 45 minutes from exciting Edinburgh.

Information Session
Wednesday, Sept. 30
4 p.m. - 5 p.m.
Poage Library 201b

For more information please contact
Lexi English @baylor.edu

254-710-1258
1. RB LEONARD FOURNETTE (LSU)

Leonard Fournette (7) runs past Blake Countess (24) on a touchdown run in the first half of the game between LSU and Alabama Saturday in Baton Rouge, La.

I could very easily see them making it to the SEC Championship Game. Though Chubb and Fournette both play in the SEC, the only way to stop this guy is by playing Fournette in my rankings over running back Saquon Barkley, Mayfield's teammate. I was certain that if any OSU player would be in the Heisman race, it'd be Barkley, but college football produces the unexpected.

With this being Mayfield’s first season under center for the Sooners, I assumed we would see a heavy dose of running. This would greatly suit Petine's great team and keep Mayfield out of tough situations, but that has not been the case.

The season is young, but all signs point towards Mayfield getting more opportunities for Mayfield to shine.

However, college football and Heisman rankings are a “what have you done for me lately” situation. And lately, the Texas Tech transfer has been on fire. We’ll see if he can keep that up in the Sooners’ game versus West Virginia.

2. QB DAWD KELLY (OKLA)

My fifth spot was a tough decision this week. I would have kept Baker Mayfield or Dwayne Haskins in the top five. But after much deliberation, I decided to award Kelly with the No. 5 spot. I feel confident in the Sooners’ quarterback standing in the five spot. The Sooners have been on fire. We’ll see if he can keep that up in the Sooners’ game versus West Virginia.

3. QB TREVINQ BOYKIN (TCU)

TCU may have had an unimpressive close down with SMU over the weekend, but the Horned Frogs came away victorious and Boykin had a magnificent game. He accumulated over 300 yards of total offense and six touchdowns, coming in to move up No. 3 to No. 2.

Boykin also moves up one in my list because Alabama recently lost both D Active Henry and USC quarterback Cody Kody (both previously in my Heisman short list) and suffered big losses over the weekend. We lost D Active Henry and the sneaked Stanford Cardinal stunned USC in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

With the TCU defense deployed and teams with defensive firepower like Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Baylor coming up on the schedule, we may see some colossal numbers from Boykin.

There’s no doubt in my mind that if the Horned Frogs are able to go unadulterated and make the College Football Playoff, Boykin will win the Heisman Trophy. The problem for Boykins is that I don’t see that happening, but only time will tell.

4. RB BAKER MAYFIELD (OU)

It is no secret to most people that Mayfield is a talent in the SEC. He is the gift to the Sooners this year. He has turned around Oklahoma’s season. Original is a transfer from Texas Tech,

My original Heisman favorite falls to No. 6 this week, and that is Saquon Barkley. The sophomore RB put up solid numbers, like 135 yards and two touchdowns were overwhelmed by the talent to come from Fournette. However, Chubb and the Bulldogs looked impressive as a whole last week.

For Advertising Information, contact us at 979.690.3000 or Email: Advertising@baylor.edu

Heisman Watch: Fournette breaks through

JOSHUA DAVIS
Sports Writer

College football is a wonderful game – my favorite, in fact. The matchups across the board this past weekend were incredibly delicious, and the performances alone shouldn’t surprise.

Stanford taking down USC isn’t K. K.纳入 resentment in my Heisman rankings, just like Alabama losing to Ole Miss isn’t Derek Henry. Neither player had a bad game. Early on in the season, everything is subjective, and I had an unbiased record.

This last weekend provided a big shakeup in my standings. And without further ado, I give you my Week 3 Heisman rankings.

1. RB LEONARD FOURNETTE (LSU)

Leonard Fournette looked impressive as a whole last week. The sophomore RB put up solid numbers, like 135 yards and two touchdowns, and the unranked Stanford Cardinal stunned the No. 3 Trojans. With the TCU defense depleted and teams with defensive firepower like Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Baylor coming up on the schedule, we may see some colossal numbers from Boykin.

There’s no doubt in my mind that if the Horned Frogs are able to go unadulterated and make the College Football Playoff, Boykin will win the Heisman Trophy. The problem for Boykins is that I don’t see that happening, but only time will tell.

2. QB DAWD KELLY (OKLA)

My fifth spot was a tough decision this week. I would have kept Baker Mayfield or Dwayne Haskins in the top five. But after much deliberation, I decided to award Kelly with the No. 5 spot. I feel confident in the Sooners’ quarterback standing in the five spot. The Sooners have been on fire. We’ll see if he can keep that up in the Sooners’ game versus West Virginia.

3. QB TREVINQ BOYKIN (TCU)

TCU may have had an unimpressive close down with SMU over the weekend, but the Horned Frogs came away victorious and Boykin had a magnificent game. He accumulated over 300 yards of total offense and six touchdowns, coming in to move up No. 3 to No. 2.

Boykin also moves up one in my list because Alabama recently lost both D Active Henry and USC quarterback Cody Kody (both previously in my Heisman short list) and suffered big losses over the weekend. We lost D Active Henry and the sneaked Stanford Cardinal stunned USC in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

With the TCU defense deployed and teams with defensive firepower like Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Baylor coming up on the schedule, we may see some colossal numbers from Boykin.

There’s no doubt in my mind that if the Horned Frogs are able to go unadulterated and make the College Football Playoff, Boykin will win the Heisman Trophy. The problem for Boykins is that I don’t see that happening, but only time will tell.

4. RB BAKER MAYFIELD (OU)

It is no secret to most people that Mayfield is a talent in the SEC. He is the gift to the Sooners this year. He has turned around Oklahoma’s season. Original is a transfer from Texas Tech,

My original Heisman favorite falls to No. 6 this week, and that is Saquon Barkley. The sophomore RB put up solid numbers, like 135 yards and two touchdowns were overwhelmed by the talent to come from Fournette. However, Chubb and the Bulldogs looked impressive as a whole last week.

For Advertising Information, contact us at 979.690.3000 or Email: Advertising@baylor.edu

Heisman Watch: Fournette breaks through

JOSHUA DAVIS
Sports Writer

College football is a wonderful game – my favorite, in fact. The matchups across the board this past weekend were incredibly delicious, and the performances alone shouldn’t surprise.

Stanford taking down USC isn’t K. K.纳入 resentment in my Heisman rankings, just like Alabama losing to Ole Miss isn’t Derek Henry. Neither player had a bad game. Early on in the season, everything is subjective, and I had an unbiased record.

This last weekend provided a big shakeup in my standings. And without further ado, I give you my Week 3 Heisman rankings.

1. RB LEONARD FOURNETTE (LSU)

Leonard Fournette looked impressive as a whole last week. The sophomore RB put up solid numbers, like 135 yards and two touchdowns, and the unranked Stanford Cardinal stunned the No. 3 Trojans. With the TCU defense depleted and teams with defensive firepower like Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Baylor coming up on the schedule, we may see some colossal numbers from Boykin.

There’s no doubt in my mind that if the Horned Frogs are able to go unadulterated and make the College Football Playoff, Boykin will win the Heisman Trophy. The problem for Boykins is that I don’t see that happening, but only time will tell.

2. QB DAWD KELLY (OKLA)

My fifth spot was a tough decision this week. I would have kept Baker Mayfield or Dwayne Haskins in the top five. But after much deliberation, I decided to award Kelly with the No. 5 spot. I feel confident in the Sooners’ quarterback standing in the five spot. The Sooners have been on fire. We’ll see if he can keep that up in the Sooners’ game versus West Virginia.

3. QB TREVINQ BOYKIN (TCU)

TCU may have had an unimpressive close down with SMU over the weekend, but the Horned Frogs came away victorious and Boykin had a magnificent game. He accumulated over 300 yards of total offense and six touchdowns, coming in to move up No. 3 to No. 2.

Boykin also moves up one in my list because Alabama recently lost both D Active Henry and USC quarterback Cody Kody (both previously in my Heisman short list) and suffered big losses over the weekend. We lost D Active Henry and the sneaked Stanford Cardinal stunned USC in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

With the TCU defense deployed and teams with defensive firepower like Texas Tech, Oklahoma and Baylor coming up on the schedule, we may see some colossal numbers from Boykin.

There’s no doubt in my mind that if the Horned Frogs are able to go unadulterated and make the College Football Playoff, Boykin will win the Heisman Trophy. The problem for Boykins is that I don’t see that happening, but only time will tell.

4. RB BAKER MAYFIELD (OU)

It is no secret to most people that Mayfield is a talent in the SEC. He is the gift to the Sooners this year. He has turned around Oklahoma’s season. Original is a transfer from Texas Tech,

My original Heisman favorite falls to No. 6 this week, and that is Saquon Barkley. The sophomore RB put up solid numbers, like 135 yards and two touchdowns were overwhelmed by the talent to come from Fournette. However, Chubb and the Bulldogs looked impressive as a whole last week.