College GameDay will be broadcasting live before the 7 p.m. on Saturday for the game against the Oklahoma Sooners.

Students gather in support of the Bears for ESPN's GameDay last fall. Baylor will host the prestigious college football show in front of McLane Stadium for the second consecutive year. GameDay will be broadcasting live before the 7 p.m. on Saturday for the game against the Oklahoma Sooners.

The Bears prepare to host Stoops' Sooners from Oklahoma and look to stay 9-0 on the season.
Once again, Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump was controversial on television. However, this time, it was actually a part of the plan. Trump was the host of NBC’s “Saturday Night Live” for the second time in the show’s history this season — a clear statement of his status as the most controversial author of the NBC show “Celebrity Apprentice,” Now, more controversy followed for the 2016 presidential election and with previously-seen tax from NBC. This time it was his “SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE” mini-sketch. As “The Donald,” Trump would use a borderline slick of humor and “the art of the possible” in his campaign, while also doing his due diligence by processing his political beliefs, mostly fiscal and national plans.

In June, NBC cut business ties with host Fallon due to the common issue of “Tonight Show” ratings. This is in response to Trump’s “Court” in a 90-minute slot. Fallon had a 1.5% market share, while Trump’s NBC “Tonight Show” in September.

NBC cut ties with Trump to respect the opinions of Americans and America and Miss Universe. Never has a host been so uniformly disliked by the network. “Regardless of his political beliefs, NBC felt it was important to move forward,” said Shawn Miller, president of network programming.

“An unscrupulous president would have no shame,” said Colin Williams, host of NBC’s “Tonight Show.”

The network’s decision not to renew Fallon’s contract was to focus on showing a “freer” and more humorous style in his performances, while also trying to avoid the controversy of Trump’s hosting. Fallon’s contract was up for renewal, and the network decided to allow Fallon to pursue other opportunities.

In this case, the solution was simply changing the format of the show. While the equality of transgender individuals is a complex issue, the school had to find a way to accommodate all students. The school in this situation was not required to change the locker room to accommodate transgender students. The school in this situation was simply required to make changes to accommodate all students.

Doubling down on this, the school in this situation was not required to change the locker room to accommodate transgender students. The school in this situation was simply required to make changes to accommodate all students. The school in this situation was not required to change the locker room to accommodate transgender students. The school in this situation was simply required to make changes to accommodate all students. The school in this situation was not required to change the locker room to accommodate transgender students. The school in this situation was simply required to make changes to accommodate all students.
NOW LEASING
BRAND NEW STUDENT LIVING!

Hurry! Call or visit us today - available space is limited!

HAVEN SOUTH

VISIT OUR TEMPORARY LEASING OFFICE: 1700 SOUTH 5TH STREET, WACO, TX 76706

888.454.8749 • WWW.HAVENSOUTHWACO.COM
Campus welcomes bicycle safety program

STEPHANIE REYES  Reporter

The Baylor Police Department and Department of Public Safety will start a bicycle safety program on campus that will include bicyclist education and will bring awareness of new rules to students.

Baylor Police Chief Brad Wigtil said he helped come up with the idea of starting a bicycle program on Baylor campus.

“IT was somewhat based on my experience from another university and a couple of incidents that we had here. I thought, ‘Maybe we should sit down and start analyzing the issues and come up with some solutions,’” Wigtil said.

Matt Penney, Director of parking and transportation, and momentum for the program started in the last year under the newly created Department of Public Safety.

“The Department of Public Safety brought [together] parking, the police department and a couple of other departments that have a safety issue,” Penney said.

Bicycle education and awareness will be a huge part in the new bike program in order to keep both the bicyclists and drivers safe.

“If we all follow the rules of the road, everybody will be safer—the pedestrians, the cars, the bikes,” Wigtil said.

The education portion of the bicycle safety program is still being developed, but will be marketed in the spring semester through emails and social media. In addition, Baylor police and Parking and Transportation Services will make efforts to let people know about the expectations of the road.

Wigtil said there will be new rules in place that all bicyclists will need to follow on campus.

“The executive council has just passed it, and that’s the one we’re going to be rolling out so that everyone knows there is policy governing the use of bicycles on campus,” Wigtil said.

Wigtil said the basic rules of the road for bicyclists is one aspect of what this new bicycle program will focus on, including speed limits and how to proceed at intersections. Wigtil also said paraphrasing the “legalese” of the transportation code will help.

One of the benefits that may come out of this program is having bicycle lanes created all around campus, Penney said.

“In addition, students are being encouraged to register their bicycles in order to help recover them if they are stolen,” Penney said.

Students who have bicycles on campus can register them in order to help recover them if stolen. In addition, students are being encouraged to register their bicycles in order to help recover them if they are stolen.

For students who have registered their bikes, Penney said by registering their bicycles, they can email parking@baylor.edu with any questions or feedback.

“The ultimate goal of the program is to make our campus safer,” Penney said.

BICYCLE REGULATIONS: The Baylor Police Department and Department of Public Safety will implement new programs across campus in an effort to curb decreases in bicycle theft and make bicyclists, pedestrians and drivers safer on campus.

In addition, the executive council has just passed the bike program on campus.

“Bringing us together [Parking and Transportation Services and Baylor Police Department] gives us the ability to be able to address this,” Wigtil said.

If students want to get involved or express any concerns about bicycles, they can email parking@baylor.edu.
The university accepted its first black student. Group members Concerned Student 1950, which gets its name from the year for the Columbia campus, the school announced plans to offer dormitory bathroom. Apparently drunken white student. Black student organization said slurs were hurled at them by an truck shouted racial slurs at him. In early October, members of a could have cost the school more than $1 million. Game against Brigham Young University at Arrowhead Stadium, dance at seeing him.

Five hours went tonight to worship and encouragement, not only at the choir singing on a stage. He soon became the protesters' main target. The tweet said: "The Mizzou Family..."

The Missouri campus in Columbia, Mo. has an ideal. 830-730-3411. Wood. Clean, Well-kept. Located near 7th Street and 11th Street.

The organization creates to public and private schools all across the county. The goal for books to students from prekindergarten to 4th grade, ages through 10. If the school has 60 percent or more students on free or reduced lunch, all the students in those grade levels receive the new and free books. If the school has a more diversified income, the students on or reduced lunch will receive the books. The goal was to become a 501c3 organization, with tax-exempt status. The Longstreet Foundation heard the idea and agreed to lend the organization $1,500 to purchase the first 100 books to the founders. They were impressed that everyone, regardless of ethnicity, could have access to a book. The organization since 2002, after retiring from 32 years of teaching at the high school level. Teaching at the high school level, she hadn't heard about the organization, but when she was exposed to, she thought it was truly wonderful. She then saw there were families that didn't have access to mosques and the organization. She key joined us because everybody took the morning newspaper like my family does. But when you're a single parent, that's definitely not one of the necessities of life, " Johnson said. Reading is essential in the life of a child, according to Johnson. She increased their vocabulary and it teaches them something else. "Anytime you get a child to read, that's education," Johnson said. We try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," Johnson said. Students are also encouraged to give back through service. In December the shadows will look pretty deep and they will need replenishing. That's when we will need volunteers for book plating, grading, shelf-lining and all of that. That's more in the spring and in the summer," Johnson said.

Storybook Christmas operates all year and can always donations, service and support. As the organization has grown and reached more and more children, the stories have grown more challenging. Although the organization has full-time teaching. We try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," Johnson said. The organization is to elementary students, no older than 4th grade. The organization has successfully helped thousands of children to give back with a check or cash donation.

MISSOURI from Page 3

concerns. He soon became the protesters' main target. In a statement issued Sunday, Weltz acknowledged that "change is needed" and said the university was working to draw up a plan by April to promote diversity and tolerance. But by the end of that day, a campus in on had grown to six, graduate student groups planned walkouts and politicians began to weigh in.

After the resignation announcement, students and teachers in Columbia had gathered and chanted. Sophomore Kathryn Brown said she wasn't necessarily aware because she saw the music and wanted to do that today. "We're still doing that tonight," she said.

Tonight, BRH's band will lead the music, while members of the choir were singing in the audience. The choir rehearsed before the event, throughout the chapel that it's about worshiping God together," Fox said. BRH President Mary Claire Hill said they didn't want to be there. "We're still doing that today," said Tyler Fox, BRH's music director. "We're still doing that today.

"We have a newly talented group of guys that rehearse on their own and then rehearse with us," Fox said. Spring 2015 was the first time BRH held a worship night on campus and to the world. They will hold a存款杨 Huskey for the spring to help fund their mission trip. Tonight's event, however, is free.

"We're less for people to come to our worship night and just worship with us," Hill said.

Baylor Religious Hour to hold worship night

EMMA KING Staff Writer

Tonight, at 8 p.m., the Religious Hour Church in Elliston Chapel during their campus wide worship night.

"It's cool that someone in 1948 formed a group around the goodwill of the Gospel of worship and encourage people with the project," said Tyler Fox, BRH's music director. "We're still doing that today."

Baylor and coaches locking arms. "The tweet said: "The Mizzou Family..."

Tonight, BRH's band will lead the music, while members of the choir were singing in the audience. Fox said they used to just build their own music and wanted to be involved in praising God, not because BRH

"That's de/finitely not one of the necessities of life," "I didn't realize there were families that have no actual homes," "If that is the only book that the child owns, "Anytime you get a child to read, that's education," "We try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," "No try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," "We try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," "No try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," "We try and encourage people to donate money or books, which are totally tax-deductible because we are a 501c3 organization, so we accept the appropriate books and we can normally buy them at a much cheaper price because we can buy them in bulk," "School will go to leave campus. Hill said their mission is to spread the gospel, across Baylor's campuses and to the world. They will hold a存款杨 Huskey for the spring to help fund their mission trip. Tonight's event, however, is free.

Artist Frank Stella will also be in attendance to speak about his work.

Famed, post-war minimalist artist to visit campus today

HELENA HUNT Staff Writer

Minimalist, minimalist and artist Frank Stella comes to Baylor for the first time today for the Albritton Art Institute's annual lecture. The renowned painter and sculptor will be coming to Baylor to discuss his life and work with art critic Jason Kaufman.

The lecture will take place at 6:30 p.m. today in Jones Theater in the Hooper Schaefer Fine Arts Center. “The audience will have the opportunity to ask Stella questions about his work after the talk. “It’s huge for him to be coming to Baylor because he’s coming off his career retrospective at the Whitney,” said Adair McGregor, the events manager for the Albritton Art Institute.

Stella is one of the last living and working members of the post-World War II art movement. Although Stella was initially reacting against the colorful flamboyance of the Abstract Expressionism movement, later in his career he transitioned into a similarly expressive style.

The Woodlands senior Conner Moncrief is most interested in hearing about this transition at Stella's talk. Moncrief recently visited the Stella retrospective at the Whitney Museum and was struck by the artist's evolution.

“I would like to know more about his later work, because I have a hard time grasping some of it, having seen it at the Whitney,” Moncrief said. “I am just getting to see an artist who was in the thick of that art scene between Abstract Expressionism and minimalism alive and talking incredible.”

The Albritton Art Institute, which is hosting the lecture, promotes the appreciation of artists in campus. Each year’s lecture brings a pre-eminent artist to campus for discussion with students, faculty and members of the public.

“His is a pillar in the history of art. Just to gain any information will be wonderful,” McGregor said. “Kaufman, who will be interviewing Stella for the lecture, was instrumental in bringing Stella to Baylor.”

“Just really excited to see Frank Stella in the flesh because he’s someone you read about in so many courses. He’s a real deal artist,” Moncrief said.
The Luck Runs Out
Soccer ends Big 12 run, lands player on all-tournament team

TYLER CAGLE
Sports Writer

Baylor women’s soccer season came to an end this weekend with a 2-0 loss to Kansas in the Big 12 Championship Tournament. The Bears were the No. 2 seed in the tournament, while the Jayhawks were the No. 8 seed. Following the championship match, senior midfielder Bri Campos was named to the all-tournament team for outstanding play throughout the Big 12 Tournament.

“We did all we can’t be disappointed in this season and the girls,” said head coach Paul Jobson. “I’m proud of this team – we’ve pushed eighth in conference and finished second, which no one gave us a shot to anywhere near this right now.”

Baylor’s season was a bit of a comeback story. After starting 2015 with an 8-4-1 record, the Bears reeled off seven straight wins, including a 1-0 victory in the Big 12 Championship Tournament.

In their last five games, each team would trade goals back and forth. In the first round of the Big 12 tournament, the Bears fell victim to many overtime PKs and Sara Martinson making a big save. It was a whole – veterans and freshmen making as a whole – veterans and freshmen making a valuable asset for a young Baylor squad next season.

“Experience for the Bears will certainly be a valuable asset for a young Baylor squad next season,” Jobson said. “Experience is very valuable to us. At competing for Big 12 titles for years to come.”

FOLLOW POINT Senior Bri Campos collected the ball during a match against Oklahoma State on Sept. 25 at Betty Lou Mays Field. Campos earned Big 12 all-tournament first team honors.

After a TCU yellow card gave Bri Campos a free kick opportunity, Campos sent a laser shot just to the right of the TCU wall, equalizing the score. Each team would trade goals back and forth in the following shootout. In the eighth round of the shootout, TCU missed wide right to give the Bears the victory, as the Bears won the shootout 7-6.

“(The TCU game) exemplifies our season as a whole – veterans and freshmen making PKs and Sara Martinson making a big save. It doesn’t get down to stipments of a team effort than tonight,” Jobson said. However, that season would come to an end and in the following game against the Kansas Jayhawks.

This 2-0 second round loss to the Lady Jayhawks was the second time the Bear had faced Kansas in the Sept. 9 matchup in Lawrence, Kan., the Bears fell to Kansas 1-0 in a double overtime thriller.

In the last seven seconds, Parker Roberts headed Kansas’ Liana Salazar’s free kick into the game winner. The Kansas twin was the only regular season conference game Baylor lost. The only other non-win results in conference play for the Bears were two hard-fought draws.

As for the Bears matchup against Kansas last weekend, Salazar once again played a vital role in Baylor’s downfall.

In the 79th minute, Salazar once again played a vital role in Baylor’s downfall. Although the Bears had quality opportunities to keep up the game, both Sarah King and Lauren Parry’s shot on goal attempts were saved. Kansas would effectively end the game in the 79th minute, again on a Salazar goal. Salazar stole the ball 25 yards out and netted the dagger.

“I’m proud of the determination and what we were able to do. The experience we gained this year will be so valuable for next season.”

“I’m proud of this team – we’ve pushed eighth in conference and finished second, which no one gave us a shot to anywhere near this right now.”

“We do a pretty good job of ignoring distractions,” Blanchard said. “We need to talk to somebody, but other than that, we’ll just watch it on television.”

Heckerdorn served a cross into the box where Meghan Murphy was there for the header. Meghan Murphy was there for the header. Meghan Murphy was there for the header. After a scoreless first half.

Bears would hang on and equal the score in the 68th minute, TCU’s Emma Heckerdorn served a cross into the box where Meghan Murphy was there for the header. Meghan Murphy was there for the header. Meghan Murphy was there for the header.
Bears crush Mountaineers

JOSHUA DAVIS

Baylor volleyball had the ball rolling past the West Virginia Mountaineers in three sets (25-19, 25-20, 25-20) on Saturday at the Ferrell Center. Thanks to the effort from senior middle hitter Adison Richburg.

She was a force to be reckoned with all night, as she racked up a match-high 16 blocks. The performance was enough for the weekend gave Richburg 16 blocks in her last two games.

Richburg’s 16 total blocks led the Big 12 by a wide margin, with the 10 blocks against Texas Tech matching the third-most in a single game in Big 12 history. She was a force to be reckoned with both offensively and defensively. The Mountaineers only held the lead twice in the third set, but failed to take advantage of those opportunities.

Ralph made quick work of West Virginia’s success and completed this season sweep.

With the victory, the Bears move to 16-9 (Big 12) for the season, while the Mountaineers fall to 5-18 (0-10 Big 12).

Although Ralph was unable to find its regular flow on offense, senior outside hitter Andie Malloy had no problem producing for the Bears. She was the most effective attacker for either squad, carrying a match-high in kills, 35 for the season.

The Bear’s defense has also been playing extremely well, holding the Giants to less than 300 yards, the Seahawks to only 13 points and containing rushing attacks all season. Now, having Matt Cassel at the helm, the Cowboys’ offensive attack greatly improved. Darren McFadden secured the running back role and has looked great.

Now, having Matt Cassel at the helm, the Cowboys’ offensive attack greatly improved. Darren McFadden secured the running back role and has looked great.

With in-house fighting off the field and disastrous play on the field, the Cowboys were looking to be back to bringing the punch-line franchise they had been for so long.

Although Richburg's 16 total blocks led the Big 12 by a wide margin, with the 10 blocks against Texas Tech matching the third-most in a single game in Big 12 history. She was a force to be reckoned with both offensively and defensively.

After three straight weekends of mediocrity and unseasonable weather, last week was one of the best ever being a Cowboy fan. As NFC East title, a playoff victory, and a tight game against the Panthers in Lambeau capped off an amazing year for Cowboys Nation (by the way, Don caught the ball). We might as well hang a great season in 2015.