Ishmael Zamora suspended for three games

Baylor increases 2017-2018 transfer merit scholarships

KICKED TO THE SIDELINE No. 8 Ishmael Zamora celebrates with junior wide receiver Kaleb Moore after a special teams play during the 2015 homecoming game against Iowa State. Zamora is now suspended for three games under a charge of animal abuse after he beat his dog with a belt for relieving itself inside his apartment.

Sophomore wide receiver Ishmael Zamora will be suspended for the first three games of the season, Baylor announced Tuesday afternoon. Zamora has been waiting for his punishment to be put in place after the police received a video on July 25 that showed Zamora repeatedly beating and snapping on his dog. Zamora received a citation and was charged with a Class C misdemeanor for animal molestation.

Zamora was put under a charge of animal abuse after he beat his dog with a belt for relieving itself inside his apartment. In addition to the suspension, Zamora must complete 40 hours of community service, participate in counseling and give his dog to an animal-friendly home.

“Our football program does not condone this behavior by anyone. We are deeply saddened by it and have worked together with the university to hold Ishmael accountable for his actions,” said Baylor head football coach Jim Grobe in a press release from Baylor Media Communications.

“Ishmael’s actions are not acceptable. We are proud of our university for the way they handled the matter. We ask that you support him as he works to become the person he can and wants to be,” Grobe said.

Baylor head coach Art Briles said he spoke with the team after the report came out.

“Nothing like this has ever happened in my lifetime at Baylor. It’s very, very disappointing,” Briles said.

“Although the business is new, the brand is far from there. It’s one of the reasons we’re here, to open Magnolia Bakery in the Magnolia Silos.

The Silos opened in October 2015 and quickly became a magnet in Waco for “Fixer Upper” fans from all over the country. The City of Waco reported that the Silos attracts around 25,000-35,000 visitors each week.

It helps us to stay competitive with other schools,” Pyron said. However, Baylor’s increase in efforts to aid the transfer community, such as the scholarship increase, has caused Baylor’s reputation to begin changing for transfer students.

When the Silos first opened, the bakery was almost empty, said Blake Grimes, a business major.

“If you ask Waco what the Silos are known for, they’ll tell you ‘Fixer Upper’ and that. Even though that is huge, we always want to be known for something else.”

‘Fixer Upper’ Sweets and Treats Magnolia Silos extends as Chip and Joanna Gaines open Magnolia Bakery

KALYN STORY Chip & Joanna Gaines Smashed with Joanna Gaines and Chip Gaines expanded their reach by adding Magnolia Bakery to the Magnolia Silos.

The Silos opened in October 2015 and quickly became a magnet in Waco for “Fixer Upper” fans from all over the country. The City ofWaco reported that the Silos attracts around 25,000-35,000 visitors each week.

A new tourist attraction has recently opened while students were away for summer vacation. Although the location is new, the brand is far from there.

“The Silos are so pretty; I wish I could spend all day there. It’s just another thing I love about Waco,” Stange said. “The cupcakes were amazing and I just two days after the bakery opened.

“I love the Silos because everything is quality,” Stange said. “I had to stop by to see the bakery,” Stange said. “The Silos are sexy, I wish I could spend all day there. I love spending time there.”

Stange said that watching “Fixer Upper” has become a family activity that makes her family pride is his a Baylor family.

“We’ve got to go back and watch the episodes where they first found the silos and wanted to develop them, and now they’re finished and I can go there. It’s just another thing I love about Waco.”

“Now Brandsmth sophomore Lindsey Stange stopped by the Silos while passing through Waco just two days after the bakery opened.

Why marrying early isn’t going to ruin your life

We all know the drill. The Facebook status changes, the initial photos go up, and an entire shininess timeline forms. Friends’ friends cuddling at their friends’ with the quickly appearing new posts, you join in on this kindling invasion. Your Instagram accounts, sparkling information, (and even just a bit of jealousy). It's the time in our lives when engagement season pops up, seemingly overnight.

There is always an outpouring of joy for both each couple, but for some reason, there seems to be an element of unspoken envy. The idea of finding that special person, the idea of spending your days together, can be appealing to those who are yet to find the right person. However, for those in a relationship, the idea can seem daunting.

For many Baylor students living off-campus, transportation from campus can be expensive, and owning a car is not always feasible. In addition, transportation options that Baylor provides is a free alternative to expensive, and owning a car is not always convenient. However, with the new off-campus housing being developed, the bus system is becoming overcrowded, inconsistent, and inconvenient for students who need to get to campus.

Due to the rise in applications to Baylor in recent years, many changes have been taken place to reduce overcrowding and improve the bus system. Students have come together to organize and improve the bus system. However, it is important to remember that this change is part of a larger effort to make Baylor a more welcoming and accessible environment for all students.

For many students, the decision to get married early is a personal one. Everyone has their own timeline and circumstances, and it is important to support and respect those choices.

ASHTRICK, H.B. (AP) – An Italian bishop has issued a call to pray for peace as hundreds of wrecked buildings remained standing after the earthquake that hit central Italy.

The bishop of Assisi, Monsignor Marcello Saieva, said Tuesday that looters have destroyed property and damaged buildings in the town of Amatrice.

He praised the efforts of local officials and police, who have arrested several people suspected of looting.

In his suspension, Zamora will be practicing with the team as long as he meets all other university obligations.

“I am sorry that I took out my frustration on my dog and accept the punishment that comes with it. This incident will never, ever happen again,” Zamora said in the release. “I truly love my dog. However I know that my actions demonstrate that I made a big mistake.”

“I am very grateful for my family, teammates, Baylor University, and our fans for their support,” Zamora said. “I understand that everyone has limits and I know that I am the only one who needs to take responsibility for my actions. I am very grateful for the opportunity to play at Baylor and will work hard to make amends.”

The Baylor athletic department also announced in a press release on Monday that junior safety Chance Waz is suspended from the first two games due to academic discipline.

A time to reminisce
Seniors prepare for their last first game

JORDAN SMITH
Sports Writer

The roar of the crowd, the gridiron and an ayeshadow cast on the locker room right before the big game. The goalposts run up and down your mind as you focus on the moment in your eyes. You stand at the end of the tunnel with the field in sight. Just before you run out of the tunnel, everything is silent. You reflect below your feet to the game’s history. The moment comes. You run onto the field to the thunderous roar of the crowd. You are participating in your first season opener as a Baylor Bear.

For a select group of senior football players, this will be the last time they will participate in a season opener. Others will head to the NFL to pursue a career in football, and some Bears will step playing football after this season and go to pursue a career with the degree they have been working on for the past four years.

While the future is not yet set for senior quarterback Seth Russell, the upcoming Baylor game will be his first game back since his season-ending neck injury last October. However, when he steps onto the field Friday night, it will also be his last season-opening game at Baylor.

"Definitely just going out there and playing with the guys that have been, you know, grinding through it all," Russell said when asked about his favorite moment.

When asked what it means to him to be a Baylor Bear, he responded quickly.

"Being a Baylor Bear is just consistency, always knowing that people are going to doubt you, and it's your job as a person at this university to prove those doubters wrong and just show that what we do in it is at a high level, and we do it with the best character possible," Russell said.

Offensive lineman Kyle Fuller's journey through Baylor has had its highs and lows. He is a senior-year sophomore and in his first year, he did not play even one game. Fuller redshirted in order to retain his eligibility. However, since then, he has not looked back. He has now 56 games under his belt, the most games played on the active roster. Fuller started in 21 of those games, tying for most on the active roster.

A moment that sticks out for Fuller during his time at Baylor happened last season in Orlando, Fla.

"I think of one of my favorite moments was definitely winning the Russell Athletic Bowl last year," Fuller said. "That's always a big thing right there. Then, then Johnny going through and setting that record. That's probably one of my favorite moments. We all get to carry that, we all get to own that."

However, Fuller knows that to get back to that position, he cannot take his focus off of the next game.

"Looking forward, I'm taking it a week at a time," Fuller said. "So, one that I'm definitely going to enjoy in the first game. That's the one that I'm looking at right now, and that's how you have to look at it. You've never really just promised games down the line. So you definitely just have to look at the one coming up." As these Bears enter into their last first home games, they will be adding to the legacy they will be leaving not only to McLane Stadium, but also to Baylor history.
