ISSA, said.

Senior Krishna Jayaswal, president of the Student Association, celebrated their fourth annual all-campus Holi festival.

Thursday as the Indian Subcontinent Mall and the Baylor community on campus observed the Coming of Spring and the triumph of good over evil.

Student Association celebrated their fourth annual all-campus Holi festival.

Coming of Spring.

On other participants, celebrating the festival state that the colors can help symbolize that discrimination based on race is nonsensical.

Baylor Scott & White and the Family Health Center. Craine said McLennan County Public Health District, Ascension Providence, and the Baylor community on campus observed the Coming of Spring and the triumph of good over evil.

Holi, also known as the Festival of Colors, is a Hindu festival that has thus far stayed away from McLennan County, authorities are preparing to combat cases in the local area.

Area authorities continue to monitor COVID-19

250 years after Boston Massacre, Law, history dept. host re-enactment

ELISABETH GEORGE Reporter

In commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the Boston Massacre, the History department and Baylor Law School put on an improvised mock trial in Bennett Auditorium Thursday afternoon.

On an agency level or institutional level all of our teams have the flexibility to act quickly as the COVID-19 outbreak. While there were no confirmed or suspected COVID-19 cases in the county as of Thursday, the announcement said the Baylor Law School put on an improvised mock trial in Bennett Auditorium Thursday afternoon.

The Leadership Response Team is composed of the Waco-McLennan County Public Health District, Temple master’s candidate Danny Dunn and Solon, Iowa senior Katy Clmtzger constituted an informal advisory group.

The Holi festival has been preparing for the mock trial since November.

"We all had to prepare extensive written statements that included what was actually said in the sentencing," O’Donnell said. "We each got a person who was in that trial. And then we took other people’s testimonies, we took our research, and we took our model of the courtroom and the publication of the evidence."

A rebuilt streke around the room, dusting, enacting the verdict.

In a Baylor press release, Sweet said that the goal of the performance was to show how history is not boring and that there are many different ways to learn and experience it.

Powell said he thought it “presents a unique opportunity for history students to do research in their field and our law students to practice their trial skills.”

Blue Springs, Mo. senior Caleb O’Donnell portrayed the witness Benjamin Johnston. He said the groups have been preparing for the mock trial since November.

"We all had to prepare extensive written statements that included what was actually said in the sentencing," O’Donnell said. "We each got a person who was in that trial. And then we took other people’s testimonies, we took our research, and we took our model of the courtroom and the publication of the evidence."

A rebuilt streke around the room, dusting, enacting the verdict.

In a Baylor press release, Sweet said that the goal of the performance was to show how history is not boring and that there are many different ways to learn and experience it.

Powell said he thought it “presents a unique opportunity for history students to do research in their field and our law students to practice their trial skills.”

Blue Springs, Mo. senior Caleb O’Donnell portrayed the witness Benjamin Johnston. He said the groups have been preparing for the mock trial since November.

"We all had to prepare extensive written statements that included what was actually said in the sentencing," O’Donnell said. "We each got a person who was in that trial. And then we took other people’s testimonies, we took our research, and we took our model of the courtroom and the publication of the evidence."

A rebuilt streke around the room, dusting, enacting the verdict.

In a Baylor press release, Sweet said that the goal of the performance was to show how history is not boring and that there are many different ways to learn and experience it.
A COVID-19 Task Force continues to actively monitor guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and state and local public health agencies to ensure the continued health and safety of our community," Craine said. "Let me reiterate that there are NO cases of coronavirus at Baylor, in Waco or Central Texas. Baylor temporarily suspended university-sponsored travel to China Jan. 29, to South Korea Feb. 18th and to Italy as of Tuesday. Travel to these countries will remain suspended until further notice.

Lori Fogleman, assistant vice president for media and public relations at Baylor and member of the COVID-19 Task Force, said Baylor learned from working with the Waco-McLennan County Public Health District when a suspected case surfaced in January. Baylor has plans in place to deal with "any disruption to university operations," Fogleman said.

"The university has business continuity plans in place depending on the circumstance," Fogleman said. "As long as we maintain, faculty and staff head the CDC’s preventative measures, such as washing your hands, covering your cough and staying home when you’re sick, we hopefully will not need to execute these plans."

For anyone who suspects they may have contracted COVID-19, Craine said they should continue to follow guidelines to prevent the disease’s spread and consult with a physician.

"Make the phone call first and discuss the legal reasoning minor. He said he wanted to get involved in this re-enactment because he loves this area of history. Both Johnstons and the Johnstonites were dressed in period clothing, and some of the audience members were dressed in period clothing as well. Pam Welsh, a re-enactor from Grand Prairie, said she was impressed with the costumes and thought the actors had worn them very well. Welsh said she has been involved in reenacting since 1988.

"My husband went to an event, and he says, ‘Why you get to see this, you get to see that’ and drag me out there and we were hooked," Welsh said. "It was actually a rendezvous, which is in the mountain Cartwright era, which is a later time period than this. And through the years, we’ve just, you know, you see other things and you just (think) ‘Ah, I want to play there!”’

Wells said that she has worn reenactment clothing for the Civil War, Mountain Fur Trade, and the 18th century, the latter being her favorite.

"Our COVID-19 Task Force continues to actively monitor guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and state and local public health agencies to ensure the continued health and safety of our community," Craine said. "Let me reiterate that there are NO cases of coronavirus at Baylor, in Waco or Central Texas. Baylor temporarily suspended university-sponsored travel to China Jan. 29, to South Korea Feb. 26 and to Italy as of Tuesday. Travel to these countries will remain suspended until further notice.

Lori Fogleman, assistant vice president for media and public relations at Baylor and member of the COVID-19 Task Force, said Baylor learned from working with the Waco-McLennan County Public Health District when a suspected case surfaced in January. Baylor has plans in place to deal with "any disruption to university operations," Fogleman said.

"The university has business continuity plans in place depending on the circumstance," Fogleman said. "As long as we maintain, faculty and staff head the CDC’s preventative measures, such as washing your hands, covering your cough and staying home when you’re sick, we hopefully will not need to execute these plans."

For anyone who suspects they may have contracted COVID-19, Craine said they should continue to follow guidelines to prevent the disease’s spread and consult with a physician.

"Make the phone call first and discuss the legal reasoning minor. He said he wanted to get involved in this re-enactment because he loves this area of history. Both Johnstons and the Johnstonites were dressed in period clothing, and some of the audience members were dressed in period clothing as well. Pam Welsh, a re-enactor from Grand Prairie, said she was impressed with the costumes and thought the actors had worn them very well. Welsh said she has been involved in reenacting since 1988.

"My husband went to an event, and he says, ‘Why you get to see this, you get to see that’ and drag me out there and we were hooked," Welsh said. "It was actually a rendezvous, which is in the mountain Cartwright era, which is a later time period than this. And through the years, we’ve just, you know, you see other things and you just (think) ‘Ah, I want to play there!”’

Wells said that she has worn reenactment clothing for the Civil War, Mountain Fur Trade, and the 18th century, the latter being her favorite.
Spring break is the last time college seniors are allowed to be kids before they graduate and leave the new world. Most students use spring break as a mission trip or find other ways to enjoy the time they have to themselves.

However, many students decide to return to their hometowns in Waco or nearby cities instead of going on a trip. Spring break is the perfect time for students to go anywhere in the world and explore new opportunities beyond their local areas. The opportunity to take a trip can prove most beneficial because it allows students to get out of their normal routines, settings and try something new. Spring break can be a chance for students to get their first chance at the planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips.

While many students use spring break as a way to relax after a stressful school workload, taking a trip or going on some form of adventure for spring break could prove most beneficial because it allows students to get out of their normal routines, settings and try something new. Spring break should consist of planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips. Spring break is the perfect chance for students to get their first chance at the planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips. Spring break is the perfect chance for students to get their first chance at the planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips. Spring break is the perfect chance for students to get their first chance at the planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips. Spring break is the perfect chance for students to get their first chance at the planning, budgeting and organizing processes that go into planning and saving for trips.
The Dr Pepper Museum will host an event on COVID-19 quarantine rules. The museum is becoming more sensory-friendly, with sensory sensitivity maps that will also be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.

March 1st through 6th, the Dr Pepper Museum will host an event for those with special needs. The event will be open to these populations of people.

The event will be open as it normally is, but the event will allow those with special needs to get hands-on with activities. Lighting will be modified and sounds will be minimized. Quiet areas and sensory sensitivity maps will also be provided, which highlight areas with louder noise and brighter lights.
The health district and we're not far as it's being coordinated with and taking care of the testing as taken care of … We're monitoring you do need testing then that will be Craine said. "If they determine that you, and then we'll go from there, " on what is the best treatment for discuss that with your physician.

"As long as students, continuation plans in place depending with "any disruption to university operations, " Fogleman said. Baylor has plans in place to deal "in this re-occurrence because he loves the coronavirus at Baylor, in Waco or reiterate that there are NO cases community, " Livingstone said. "Let's continue health and safety of our health agencies to ensure the and state and local public agencies to ensure the continued health and safety of our community," Livingstone said. "Let me reiterate that there are NO cases of coronavirus at Baylor, in Waco or Central Texas."

Baylor temporarily suspended university-sponsored travel to China Jan. 29, to South Korea Feb. 18th and to Italy as of Tuesday. Travel to these countries will remain suspended until further notice. Lori Fogleman, assistant vice president for media and public relations at Baylor and member of the COVID-19 Task Force, said Baylor learned from working with the Waco-McLennan County Public Health District, "When that determination was made, we weren't able to put a stop to that at that time," Fogleman said. "As long as we continue to work with the health district and we're not far as it's being coordinated with and taking care of the testing as taken care of … We're monitoring you do need testing then that will be."

"He determined that the residences were dressed in period clothing, and some of the audience members were dressed in period clothing as well. Pam Welsh, a re-enactor from Grand Prairie, said she was impressed with the costumes and thought the actors had worn them very well. Welsh said she has been involved in reenacting since 1984. "My husband went to an event, and he said, 'You got to see this,' you get to see this,' and drag me out there and we were hooked," Welsh said. "It was actually a rendezvous, which is the mountain Cartwright era, which is a later time period than this. And through the years, we've just, you know, you see other things and you just think, 'oh, I want to play there!'"

Welsh said that she has worn reenactment clothing for the Civil War, Mountain Fur Trade, and the 18th century, the latter being her favorite. "The university has business continuity plans in place depending on the circumstances," Fogleman said. "As long as we continue to follow guidelines to prevent the disease's spread and consult with a physician.

"I ordered a whole bunch of Holi colors so we could have everyone enjoy, " Arsh Ladhani, chairs who was involved in planning the event said. "Everyone grabbing bags of colored powder. We're opening up all the packets, run to the middle and then corners so everyone can go get some. We're putting them in four different packets, run to the middle and then corners so everyone can get some. Run to the middle and then corners so everyone can get some."

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"Let me reiterate that there are NO cases of coronavirus at Baylor, in Waco or Central Texas."

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.

"We feel like it's important for us to commemorate our culture and traditions. " The celebration began with music and dance performances by Baylor students, then continued with everyone grabbing bags of colored Holi powder and throwing them at each other. "The diverse colors represent facing adversity and creating a unified state," Bajanae Thompson-Thomas, one of ISSA's social chairs who was involved in planning and facilitating the event said.

"In a modern day, people believe that allowing people to celebrate their traditions because we all have one colorful appearance, which signifies unity and all are one," Jairaj said. Students across campus and people in the Waco community were invited to participate, and people from several different organizations attended the event. By the end of the event, everyone who participated was covered from head to toe in colorful powder.
WHAT TO DO IN WACO

FRIDAY

“Euphoria” by Katvha Saminathan Opening | 4 p.m. - 5 p.m. | Human Sistrosk Fine Art Gallery, 2120 Washington Ave. | Free | A soulful expression of contemporary paintings through color and texture that will run continuously throughout March

Melinda Adams Concert | 5:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. | Balcones Distillery, 225 S. 11th St. | Free
Landscape of the Soul Opening | 6 p.m. - 10 p.m. | (Cultivate 712, 712 Austin Ave | Features abstract works of multiple mediums including encaustic work and acrylic paintings

Beatlemania64: A Tribute to the Beatles | 7 p.m. - 10 p.m. | The Hippodrome, 724 Austin Ave | $29 - $39 | A live multimedia spectacular that takes audiences on a musical journey

Improv Comedy Club | 8:30 p.m. - 10:30 p.m. | Brazos Theatre, 7524 Bosque Blvd | $10.50 - $12.50
Mickey & the Motorcars Concert | 8:30 p.m. - 11 p.m. | The Warehouse, 727 Austin Ave. | Free
Johnny Joe Ramos Concert | 9 p.m. - 11:59 p.m. | The Warehouse, 727 Austin Ave. | Free

SUNDAY

Downtown Farmers Market | 9 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. | 710 Washington Ave, across the street from McLennan County Courthouse | Free
Mindful Movement Dance Workshop | 10:30 a.m. - Noon | Cultivate 712, 712 Austin Ave. | $15 | Mindful Movement integrates basic somatic movement, conscious deep breathing, and mindfulness exercises.
Native American Style Flute Circle | 2 p.m. - 5 p.m. | Good Neighbor House, 712 Austin Ave. | Free
JD Hicks and the H.O.T. Road Gang | 2 p.m. - 6 p.m. | Rocky’s Roadhouse, 926 Lacy Drive | Free
Dueling Pianos Concert | 7:45 p.m. - 9:45 p.m. | The Hippodrome, 724 Austin Ave | $10
Improv Comedy Club | 8:30 p.m. - 10:30 p.m. | Brazos Theatre, 7524 Bosque Blvd | $10.50 - $12.50
Jody Booth Concert | 8:30 p.m. - 11 p.m. | The Backyard, 511 S. 8th | $15 - $20

Claire Van Zee | Reporter

"Since our projects are so dynamic, they don’t always just fit into one thing. They often intersect. The main thing is just to make sure that Waco has a well-rounded arts and cultural community," Sam said.

Another part of supporting the artistic growth of the city is nurturing the local cultural identity. Sam believes Waco already has an identity of its own, and they’re not trying to change that.

“The thing we don’t like is when people say Waco is going to be the new Austin,“ Sam said. “We’re not trying to simulate a new Austin. Dallas or Fort Worth, we’re just trying to amplify the things that people are already doing to make Waco more Waco.”

For years, people have looked outside of Waco for their entertainment and art experiences, but with the help of Creative Waco, the local arts agency, the city’s arts and culture scene is evolving into a hub of its own, and quickly becoming a place students might want to stay after graduation.

Creative Waco’s initiative also has its perks for Baylor students. That hope is to make Waco the kind of place where people might want to stay after graduation.

It’s just been so amazing to see how much Waco’s changed in the five years we’ve been established. Everything is very organic and really driven by locals wanting to bring cool things to Waco."

CLARI VAN ZEE | Reporter

Creative Waco
Website: www.creativewaco.org
Address: 712 Austin Ave.

SPREADING THE CREATIVITY [From left to right] Fiona Bond, Amanda Dyer and Kennedy Sam are a part of the Creative Waco team. Creative Waco is a nonprofit organization with a mission to support the art community in Waco.

Waco into cultural hub
Local arts agency shapes Waco into cultural hub

"It’s just been so amazing to see how much Waco’s changed in the five years we’ve been established. Everything is very organic and really driven by locals wanting to bring cool things to Waco."

Waco doesn’t need to copy someone else to be successful, Bond said.

"We don’t try toeshadow ourselves into any particular shape. I think the city already has its own shape and its own peculiarities which are interesting enough without us having to impose any kind of identity on that," Bond said. Sam believes Waco is truly growing and diversifying in the arts.

"It’s just been so amazing to see how much Waco changed in five years we’ve been established. Everything is very organic and really driven by locals wanting to bring cool things to Waco," Sam said.

Kennedy Sam, director of marketing and communications at Creative Waco, said everything they do falls under three pillars — public art, funding, advocacy and professional development.

"Kennedy Sam, director of marketing and communications at Creative Waco, said everything they do falls under three pillars — public art, funding, advocacy and professional development.

"It’s just been so amazing to see how much Waco’s changed in the five years we’ve been established. Everything is very organic and really driven by locals wanting to bring cool things to Waco."
 students from a Reporting and Writing for Media class partnered with Act Locally Waco to create “Books Matter,” a blog to celebrate National Reading Month.

The series has been described as a platform for Wacoans to find ways to get involved in their city. Act Locally Waco is a nonprofit geared toward uniting the Waco community and creating a nice mix of all different kinds of people within the Waco community.

In a blog entry, Yorba Linda, Calif. sophomore Lucy Ruscitto interviewed one of the co-owners of the Fabled Book Shop & Cafe, Allison Frenzel who suggested that Wacoans and National Reading Month will inspire people in the Waco and Baylor communities to pick up a book for leisure.

“Look for stories and perspectives that are different than you,” Adamson said.

“Books Matter” created a great opportunity for her students to get involved in the Waco community outside of the Baylor campus and, to also gain journalism experience in the real world.

“Anytime that we, as the Baylor community, connect with Waco, I think that’s really important. I think it was a great opportunity for my students to get out into the community,” Adamson said.

Adamson said she wants her students to go out and meet with the leaders of the community one-on-one. “From the journalistic perspective, that’s important for my students to do, but then just from the community-building perspective for them to see community leaders in different roles, inspire them to be community leaders themselves,” Adamson said.

Both Thornton and Adamson said the blog is not targeted toward a specific audience, but rather anyone who cares about Waco and reading.

“Reading together and talking about what you’re reading is one way to build community,” Thornton said. “To me, one of the best ways to get to know somebody is to talk to them about some book that was important to them. That’s how you get to know what they really care about and get to know deeper conversations.”

Adamson said the series “Books Matter” and National Reading Month will inspire people in the Waco and Baylor communities to pick up a book for leisure.

“I think we consider reading sometimes as an academic pursuit. It can be a stress reliever and leisure activity that can take you to other worlds to experience other perspectives,” Adamson said.

Whatever she is feeling stressed, Adamson picks up a book and recommends it to others. “Look for stories and perspectives that are different than you because that’s how we grow,” Adamson said. “Looking at that list and finding someone who’s different than you and reading something that they recommend could be the first step in understanding someone who’s different than you.”

Read the complete blog entry here: https://baylorlariat.com/2020/03/06/books-matter-celebrate-reading-community/
Lady Bears defeat UT on Senior Night

No. 2 Baylor women’s basketball defeated the Texas Longhorns at home Thursday night 69-53. The team improved to 28-1 on the season and 17-0 in the Big 12, just one game away from completing a perfect conference slate.

The team celebrated its seniors by holding a halftime celebration, as well as by showing a video of the seniors in action before the game.

Senior guard Juicy Landrum lines up to shoot from beyond the arc during Baylor’s 69-53 victory over the University of Texas, Thursday night at the Ferrell Center for Senior Night.

Regarding the game itself, Baylor stormed into the second period. Cooper finished the game as Baylor's leading scorer with 20 points while Cox added 17 points and 12 rebounds, including six on the offensive glass, giving her a double-double for the game.

Baylor, which came out sloppy in the second quarter, found its footing and scored 21 points in the period. The entire quarter turned out to be low-scoring as each team notched just 10 points. The Lady Bears used the third quarter to ice the game. Near the end of the third, DeGrate came onto the court for the first time and made use of her opportunity. With just four seconds left in the quarter, she converted on a one-and-one, firing up the Ferrell Center crowd and giving Baylor a 37-34 lead heading into the final quarter.

Baylor has played Texas twice this season, both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field. Baylor’s defense tonight, but we take it personal.

“Take it personal,” Cox said. “I don’t know if they were just missing shots, or if it was our defense tonight, but we take it personal.

The Lady Bears secured their conference title, the backbone of the team, to a 21st straight victory.

Baylor finishes off the regular season at noon Sunday on the road against Iowa State before going up to Kansas City, Mo., for the 2020 Big 12 Championship Tournament next week.

Women’s Basketball @ Municipal Stadium | Kansas City, Mo. The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Friday, March 13: Game 6: No. 1 seed vs. No. 8 seed/No. 9 seed @ 1:30 p.m. (FSN)
Saturday, March 14: Game 7: Game 3 Winner vs. Game 4 Winner @ 11 a.m. (FS2)
Sunday, March 15: FINAL: Game 7 Winner vs. Game 8 Winner @ 3 p.m. (ESPN2)

PRANAY MALEMPATI
Sports Writer

queens如果玩家guard姜玉兰线上射得三分投篮，她们的三分球占比在38%，平均每场比赛能够得到13.6分，这在全队贡献出了大量的分数。

PRANAY MALEMPATI
Sports Writer

QUEEN OF THREEs Senior guard Juicy Landrum lines up to shoot from beyond the arc during Baylor’s 69-53 victory over the University of Texas, Thursday night at the Ferrell Center for Senior Night.

The Lady Bears used the third quarter to ice the game. Near the end of the third, DeGrate came onto the court for the first time and made use of her opportunity. With just four seconds left in the quarter, she converted on a one-and-one, firing up the Ferrell Center crowd and giving Baylor a 37-34 lead heading into the final quarter.

Baylor has played Texas twice this season, both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

Baylor finishes off the regular season at noon Sunday on the road against Iowa State before going up to Kansas City, Mo., for the 2020 Big 12 Championship Tournament next week.

Women’s Basketball @ Municipal Stadium | Kansas City, Mo. The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Friday, March 13: Game 6: No. 1 seed vs. No. 8 seed/No. 9 seed @ 1:30 p.m. (FSN)
Saturday, March 14: Game 7: Game 3 Winner vs. Game 4 Winner @ 11 a.m. (FS2)
Sunday, March 15: FINAL: Game 7 Winner vs. Game 8 Winner @ 3 p.m. (ESPN2)

PRANAY MALEMPATI
Sports Writer

QUEEN OF THREEs Senior guard Juicy Landrum lines up to shoot from beyond the arc during Baylor’s 69-53 victory over the University of Texas, Thursday night at the Ferrell Center for Senior Night.

The Lady Bears used the third quarter to ice the game. Near the end of the third, DeGrate came onto the court for the first time and made use of her opportunity. With just four seconds left in the quarter, she converted on a one-and-one, firing up the Ferrell Center crowd and giving Baylor a 37-34 lead heading into the final quarter.

Baylor has played Texas twice this season, both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

Baylor finishes off the regular season at noon Sunday on the road against Iowa State before going up to Kansas City, Mo., for the 2020 Big 12 Championship Tournament next week.

Women’s Basketball @ Municipal Stadium | Kansas City, Mo. The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Friday, March 13: Game 6: No. 1 seed vs. No. 8 seed/No. 9 seed @ 1:30 p.m. (FSN)
Saturday, March 14: Game 7: Game 3 Winner vs. Game 4 Winner @ 11 a.m. (FS2)
Sunday, March 15: FINAL: Game 7 Winner vs. Game 8 Winner @ 3 p.m. (ESPN2)

PRANAY MALEMPATI
Sports Writer

QUEEN OF THREEs Senior guard Juicy Landrum lines up to shoot from beyond the arc during Baylor’s 69-53 victory over the University of Texas, Thursday night at the Ferrell Center for Senior Night.

The Lady Bears used the third quarter to ice the game. Near the end of the third, DeGrate came onto the court for the first time and made use of her opportunity. With just four seconds left in the quarter, she converted on a one-and-one, firing up the Ferrell Center crowd and giving Baylor a 37-34 lead heading into the final quarter.

Baylor has played Texas twice this season, both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

The Lady Bears will be the No. 1 seed.

Both times, they have locked down the Longhorns’ top two scorers, Charli Collier and Jocelyn Willoughby, holding them to a combined 7-25 from the field.

Baylor finishes off the regular season at noon Sunday on the road against Iowa State before going up to Kansas City, Mo., for the 2020 Big 12 Championship Tournament next week.
Baseball makes first true road trip to California

DJ RAMIREZ
Sports Editor

The #8 Baylor baseball team hit the road for the second straight weekend in its first true road performance of the season, taking on Cal Poly in a three-game series. The Mustangs made the trip to Waco last year, falling to the Bears in two of those three games at Baylor Bullpark.

Barker will be looking to stay a 12-2 mishap loss to Texas State, which the Bears suffered coming off a sweep of the West Monroe College Classic in Houston. Senior Sunday starter Hayden Kettler, who had a clean and effective outing against No. 13 Arkansas in the tournament, said the team expects Cal Poly to bring its best.

"They had a very good opening weekend, but that’s what we expect," Kettler said. "Each team we play we need to expect this to be the best team in the country. Cal Poly is a very respected program. They played us well here in Waco last year so I’m looking forward to going up there and getting a rematch. "

The Bears open the series against Cal Poly at 8 p.m. tonight in San Luis Obispo, Calif. All games will be broadcast on BigWestT.v and on ESPn1600 AM radio.

Offensively, the Mustangs are led by catcher Myles Emmerson, who’s hitting .320 and has five RBI so far, and first baseman Tate Samuelson who leads the team with nine RBI.

The Mustangs starting rotation has been strong, including a solid performance from starting pitcher Hayden Kettler, who had a clean and effective outing against No. 13 Arkansas in the tournament.

Senior righty Hayden Kettler throws a pitch during Baylor's 7-2 win over Nebraska on Feb. 20 at Baylor Bullpark. The Bears are 6-4 so far this season.

XFL struggles to gain foothold amid ratings slump

BRADEN SIMMONS
Sports Editor

As the Houston Roughnecks head south on their second road trip of the season, the XFL struggles to gain traction amid a ratings slump. The attendance has dropped a bit, with fewer people than a Baylor football game, but it was very energetic and family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.

"We were a lot of fun being at the XFL game and it was more family-friendly and not as rowdy as I thought," Webb said. "It had a lot more fun being at the XFL game and it was more exciting than just watching it on TV."

Webb added that the atmosphere in person is a lot more exciting than just watching it on TV. He said he enjoyed the environment.

Matt Webb attended the Houston Roughnecks’ second home game, which was against the St. Louis Battle Hawks, and said he enjoyed the environment.